10 Men Killed In Plane Crash

8 Continental Can Executives Aboard

MARION, Ohio (AP) — Search crews fanned out through a nearby wheat field early today, looking for the remaining seven victims of an airliner crash that left little doubt all 10 aboard perished.

The plane, owned by the Continental Can Co., carried eight top company executives and a crew of two. It hurtled out of an overcast sky late Wednesday and crashed with such tremendous impact that bits of wreckage were showered over a 300-yard area.

The plane literally dug the graves for most of them. Only parts of three bodies were found. The others evidently were buried under the earth.

Eight were top executives returning to New York, where the firm has its headquarters, after a meeting of company officials in Chicago, Continental Can said.

The plane crashed shortly before 6 p.m. on the farm of H.F. Smith, six miles east of this north central Ohio city.

Smith was in his barn when he heard the aircraft approaching from the north. He said he thought it was going to hit the barn, but it passed over and crashed into the wheat field 100 yards away.

It was raining lightly at the time, a midafternoon thunderstorm having blown itself out.

Continental Can identified the pilot of its plane as John R. Dunham, Madison, N.J. His copilot was Donald Martin, Dover, N.J.

All the passengers, except one, lived in the New York metropolitan area. One resided in Baltimore, and it may have been that Dunham was going to take him directly home before continuing to New York.

The company identified the passengers as: Abbot W. Sherwood, Dobbs Ferry, N.Y., product sales manager of Eastern Division; J.R. Wallace, Pound Ridge, N.Y., product sales manager; R.I. Weimerskirch, Westwood, N.J., manager of products and materials; W.J. Mutschler, Mamaroneck, N.Y., general manager of production engineering; M.D. Sandine, Baltimore, manager of the Mid-eastern District; H.G. Schier, Wood-Ridge, N.J., production engineer for equipment and maintenance; J. De Blik, plant manager at Passaic, N.J.; and J.M. Kelly, Darien, Conn., manager of production engineering of the Eastern Division.

Downtown Circleville will be barren of people Saturday due to the closing of all stores and businesses in observance of Independence Day.

A few outlying retail stores will be open to sell the forgotten items of the day before. The Pickaway County Courthouse will close as will all attorneys' offices.

The Pickaway Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County office will close tomorrow in observance of the Saturday holiday.

All banks will close Saturday and the Circleville Post Office will not open, thereby eliminating mail delivery Saturday.

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A statuesque blonde who stands 5 feet 9 gave up her Miss Maryland title after a reign of only 4½ days Wednesday because she didn't want to try for more starchy heights.

"Since the excitement has died down, I don't desire a very glamorous career," said 25-year-old Marie Litz.

The right to represent Maryland in the Miss Universe contest at Long Beach, Calif., went to the runner-up in the state contest, 24-year-old Diane White, a brunette who's only 5-4½.

Forgery Suspect, Wanted Throughout Ohio, Nabbed Here

Heady, persistent police work by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department apparently has solved a series of forgeries that has plagued counties all over Ohio.

In Pickaway County Jail today is Harry Owens, 43, Route 3, Pataskala. He has admitted writing bad checks totaling $2,580.90 in Pickaway, Wyandot, Wayne and Delaware counties.

Owens, held for investigation, was arrested at his junk-yard trailer home near Pataskala Tuesday night. Last night under questioning here he admitted writing five bad checks.

According to Sheriff Charles Radcliff, Owens admitted attending farm sales and buying trucks, junk and equipment, as well as livestock, and then paying for them with bad checks.

Some trucks he sold, others he interchanged motor and body. The livestock he sold for cash, Radcliff said.

THE PICKAWAY County job, the sheriff reported, involved a farm sale Feb. 12, 1959 at the Leonard Rogers farm, on the Williamsport-Palestine Road. There, according to the sheriff, Owens brought a 1950 Chevrolet two-door, tire chains, a rendering kettle, 100 pounds of grease and a steel

Steel Union Chiefs Seek Strike End

NEW YORK (AP)—Top officers of the United Steelworkers put pressure on the members today to end scattered wildcat strikes that erupted in Pennsylvania and Ohio in the midst of contract negotiations here.

Up to 30,000 workers were off the job at several plants in strikes which spread Wednesday after starting Tuesday night.

About 3,700 seamen on Great Lakes vessels also were defying back-to-work orders from the steelworkers union.

Some plants were forced to close. Violence broke out in a few spots.

Many of those who walked out ended their revolt Wednesday night in obedience to back-to-work orders issued here by Union President David J. McDonald.

In other cities, however, there was no immediate sign of a return to work.

The walkouts spread in defiance of the back-to-work orders sent by telegram by McDonald and other top officers of the union. McDonald said "prompt and vigorous action" was being taken to get the men back to work.

The wildcat strikes broke out in defiance of a two-week contract extension agreement made after President Eisenhower intervened in the stalemate contract negotiations last Saturday.

The first walkouts came at the time of expiration of the three-year contract covering 500,000 union members employed in plants that produce 90 per cent of the nation's steel.

Long's Heart Brings Trouble

Governors Doctor Notes Slight Failure

COVINGTON, La. (AP) — Doctors say Gov. Earl K. Long, working restlessly day and night on fourth-term campaign plans, may now have a slightly failing heart.

Dr. Victory Lief, one of four doctors attending the 63-year-old governor, said Long had a slight heart failure Wednesday.

There was no indication the Louisiana governor suffered a coronary attack, he said but doctors are concerned about the condition. They stayed through the night at his motel headquarters here.

The governor suffered a heart attack in 1950.

Earlier, Long announced plans to adopt a 14-year-old boy he met while they were both patients at John Sealy Hospital in Galveston, Tex. The boy's parents said they had not consented.

The youth is David Rankin, son of Mr. and Mrs. F.H. Rankin of Texas City, who was hospitalized with a high blood pressure condition.

Long, in the midst of a separation suit from his 58-year-old childless wife Blanche, said simply: "He got to likin' me and I got to likin' him. I've always wanted to have a son. Well, I've wanted a daughter too, but I can't chaperon one under the present circumstances."

David's parents said their boy and Gov. Long got to be good friends but they said it was untrue they agreed to adoption. They said Gov. Long phoned David last Friday. The governor invited David to visit him in Louisiana and the boy will make his own decision on whether to accept.

Rankin, a chemical plant power department foreman, has another son, Bobby, 27, and a daughter, Betty Ann, 15.

Long had a busy day Wednesday.

He announced plans for a whirlwind vacation trip west to the Pacific Coast and up to Canada, then down through the Midwest possibly to Mexico. He said he would leave next Thursday.

Belgian Prince Is Married to Giggling Bride

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Prince Albert of Liege, heir presumptive to the Belgian throne, today married a beautiful blonde Italian princess who broke down with giggles midway through the glittering church wedding.

The radiant 21-year-old bride, Dona Paola Ruffo di Calabria, was asked by Joseph Cardinal Van Roey, the officiating clergyman, "Have you come here of your own free will to engage in marriage?"

"Yes," she replied in French—and then suddenly halted, giggled and couldn't go on.

She blushed, raised her left hand to her lips and finally smothered her laughter. Her solemn, 25-year-old bridegroom, kneeling on her right, gave his bride a sympathetic look. This seemed to steady her.

Red Takes Case To U.S. Public

Kozlov Goes on TV With Plea for Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet First Deputy Premier Frol R. Kozlov said today the time has come to abolish once and for all the suspicion and distrust which he said mars international relations.

Kozlov called for a new era of U.S.-Soviet friendship which he pictured as a basic foundation for future world peace.

Addressing a combined meeting of the National Press Club and the Overseas Writers Club, the visiting Soviet official said that only recognition of "the principles of peaceful coexistence" could permit the use of atomic science for the benefit of mankind to build a period of progress "unprecedented in history."

The address was telecast nationwide by NBC. The jovial, 50-year-old Soviet leader spoke in Russian. An interpreter, V. N. Sukhodrev, translated.

The address came on the heels of a sharp exchange with U.S. leaders, led by Vice President Richard Nixon, which apparently jolted the Russian official.

Kozlov talked Wednesday with President Eisenhower, Nixon, Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and leading senators. The outcome: a standoff.

Authoritative sources reported that in his 70-minute White House conference, and in an hour-long session with Herter, Kozlov only repeated the Soviets' familiar theme at the deadlocked Geneva talks on Germany.

Eisenhower and Herter countered with the American stand: that the Allies are going to stand firm against what they say is Moscow's threat to oust them from Communist-surrounded West Berlin.

The 50-year-old Soviet leader's unexpected joust with Nixon erupted at Nixon's reception for Kozlov Wednesday night at the President's guest house. The verbal battle could resume tonight, when Nixon will be Kozlov's guest at a Soviet Embassy reception.

Nixon, with Herter's help, admittedly scored at least one round in the debate.

Kozlov had complained to Eisenhower earlier about America's attitude toward the Soviet Union. For example, he said, the United States forced the Soviet Union to pay in gold for famine-relieving food sent the U.S.S.R. after the Bolsheviks seized power late in World War I.

Nixon shot back that only last Monday former President Herbert Hoover, U.S. relief administrator after World War I, had shown him a letter from the Soviet government expressing thanks for the outright gift which Congress had approved. Nixon said the record should be kept straight.

"The question is not one to be discussed, it is not disputed," Kozlov finally admitted through his interpreter. He seemed somewhat shaken, but he never lost his smile during the spirited discussion. Neither did Nixon or Herter.

As guests eavesdropped, Nixon told Kozlov he is "a hard man—you never answer a question." And the vice president advised the Kremlin against believing reports of widespread differences in the administration, saying he and Herter spoke as one on foreign policy.

Kozlov said, "We know that as Republicans and Democrats you are as one on foreign policy."

"The difference between you and us is that you never have any arguments among yourselves," Nixon told Kozlov.

"We certainly do," replied Kozlov. "There is never a day when we do not argue among ourselves."

"The difference is," Nixon said, "we publicize ours, and you don't."

Kozlov pointed to Herter. "You never publicize any difference with Mr. Herter," he said.

"We never have any," Nixon said. "Absolutely," Herter added.

18 Worshippers Killed

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — A truck packed with worshippers returning from a temple crashed through an old wooden bridge in central Formosa Wednesday, killing 18 persons and injuring 23 others.

A 'WONDERFUL' CONVERSATION — President Eisenhower and Frol R. Kozlov, Soviet first deputy premier, share a laugh during a White House meeting at which the President told Kozlov the West intends to stay in Berlin despite Communist threats. Kozlov told reporters they had a "wonderful" conference.

3 Key Measures Face Legislature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's legislators may end their 1959 session July 17—but only if agreement is reached on three important bills.

That was the word percolating down through the membership of the 103rd General Assembly today as lawmakers prepared to end their 26th work week.

House leaders in the Democratic-dominated General Assembly are reported preparing to offer soon—perhaps today—a resolution calling for an end to the working sessions after another two legislative weeks.

But the kink in a situation like this is Senate Majority Leader Frank W. King (D-Lucas). No matter how overwhelmingly the House may adopt the session-ending resolution, King says:

"I intend to hold it back until we get firm agreements on three bills: To improve the unemployment compensation law, to liberalize the workmen's compensation law and to distribute the extra school foundation money."

The Legislature, he asserts, "cannot adjourn without action on these bills."

King, of course, was not including a couple of bills passed by the House Wednesday and now pending in the Senate—measures to appropriate more than 98 million dollars for capital improvements and slightly more than $1-100,000 for sundry claims against the state. No Legislature in memory has adjourned without passing those bills.

Wednesday's generally lackluster sessions saw one offbeat move by two Cincinnati Republican senators, William H. Deddens and Fred L. Hoffman, to nullify the sales tax revision, already in effect. They insist a Senate quorum was not present when the 33-million-dollar measure was signed by Lt. Gov. John Donahay Tuesday night.

The Senate, however, beat down by a 25-5 vote their attempt to correct, as they put it, the Senate journal. They were forced to content themselves with individual protests which will be printed in the journal. They obviously were attempting to lay the groundwork for a possible taxpayer's suit to nullify the tax.

Safety Council Hopes July 4 Prediction Is 100 Pct. Wrong

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Safety Council is one group of experts which hopes its predictions are 100 per cent wrong.

Among its tasks in the field of safety, the 47-year-old organization includes estimating the nation's traffic death toll on major holidays.

For the July 4 weekend the council estimates 350 persons will die in traffic accidents and 13,000 others will suffer disabling injuries.

"But our goal is no accidents at all," says an NSC spokesman. "All we are doing is telling people there is extra traffic, extra danger and therefore, extra accidents, and we are asking them to be extra careful."

Using mass communication media—newspapers, radio, television—the council pounds at the populace urging them to be careful.

Has it been successful? The council spokesman said definitely yes. "Who can say what the toll would be if it were not done?" he asked.

Still, the final tolls usually come close to NSC estimates.

Holiday estimates are based on a complicated formula applied to previous records for these holidays, current traffic volume trends, current toll trends, nature and length of the holiday and finally, the weather.

The council was formed in Milwaukee in 1912 at a safety session of a steel industry convention. Now its Chicago headquarters has a staff of 350 statisticians, writers, artists and traffic and industrial engineers. More than 300 other councils are affiliated in some way.

The council operates on a 5½-million-dollar budget, nine-tenths of it supplied from membership fees paid by industrial concerns and from the sale of its posters, films, data sheets and technical information.

The council also publishes 13 national magazines with a circulation totaling more than 1¼ million.

The rest of its money comes from contributions.

The organization's president is Howard Pyle, former governor of Arizona and former presidential aide.

Khrush Said 'Very Tough' About Berlin

NEW YORK (AP) — Two New York newspapers report that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, in his interview with former New York Gov. Averell Harriman, adopted a very tough line in discussing the Berlin crisis.

The New York Times, in a Washington dispatch by Harry Schwartz, quotes an "informed source" as saying: "Khrushchev was very rough in his talks with Harriman."

"Khrushchev indicated he is determined to get us out of Berlin and apparently thinks he can do so because he judges that the world balance of power has shifted in his favor."

The New York Herald Tribune, in a copyrighted Washington story by Joseph Alsop, said of the interviews, held a week ago Tuesday at Khrushchev's office and country villa: "The crude threats that the Soviet leader indulged in, the brutal tone and unprintable language that he employed are considered to mark a new phase in the world situation..."

Jury Resumes Deliberations

Another Look at Auto Is Asked by Panel

CINCINNATI (AP)—The jury in whose hands rests the fate of Mrs. Edythe Klumpp resumed deliberations this morning after taking another look at the automobile in which the alleged crime was committed.

The members also were provided with an imitation skull—the one defense attorney William F. Hopkins used in trying to prove that fractures in Mrs. Louise Bergen's head were caused when Mrs. Klumpp shoved her body into the luggage compartment of the automobile.

The state contended that Mrs. Klumpp not only shot Mrs. Bergen, 32, last Oct. 30, but bludgeoned her.

The little courtroom was crowded today, as the feeling grew that a verdict would be reached at any minute.

The case went to the jury of six men and six women at 4:02 p.m. Wednesday. The jury came back a little more than an hour later for a reading of the testimony by Mrs. Klumpp of her purchase of gasoline with which she said she burned Mrs. Bergen's body the day after the slaying.

It came back shortly before 10:30 p.m., and asked to see the automobile. Judge Frank M. Gusweiler told the jury it was physically impossible to do it at that hour but he would grant their request when they resume deliberations this morning.

At the time the jury was sent to a hotel for the night, it had had the case for approximately 6½ hours including time out for dinner and the two requests for information.

The blonde 41-year-old Mrs. Klumpp is charged with the slaying of Mrs. Bergen, wife of William Bergen, 30, with whom Mrs. Klumpp had been living for several months. Bergen, now employed in Washington, D. C., testified early in the trial, admitting, as did Mrs. Klumpp, that they had lived together and been known in their neighborhood as man and wife.

Mrs. Klumpp also has admitted she burned the body the day after the slaying but claimed Mrs. Bergen was shot accidentally as they grappled for a .22 calibre target pistol. She said Mrs. Bergen was pointing the gun at her.

On the request for reading of testimony the jurors were asking for a key point in the state's claim of premeditated murder. The state says Mrs. Klumpp bought the gasoline on Oct. 29, the day before the slaying. She says she bought it Oct. 31.

When the case finally went to the jury, Mrs. Klumpp managed a wan smile as she said, "I feel like I have butterflies in my stomach."

Lebanon Man Killed In Storage Cavern

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Edward Bowman, 38, of Lebanon, Ohio, was killed early today in a natural gas storage cavern 350 feet below the ground when a large rock slab fell on him, police reported.

Jack Robinson, 34, of Middletown, was critically injured in the same mishap.

The cavern, about four miles south of Middletown, is being built by the Texas Eastern Gas Co. The Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. will store surplus gas supplies in the cavern.

Butler County sheriff's deputies investigated the accident. It was the second fatal accident on the job in the last several months.

Snark Takes Test Flight, Returns

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A Snark intercontinental guided missile shot 1,000 miles over the Atlantic today, then turned around and came back to the cape, the Air Force said, terminating the round-trip flight highly successful.

The sleek, 69-foot rocket dropped smoothly onto the cape landing strip 4½ hours after it was launched. Special slides and a parachute that popped from the tail eased the missile's landing.

Mysterious Sub Hunted by Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazilian planes and torpedo boats searched today for a mysterious submarine which a Brazilian naval task force reported sighting in the South Atlantic 55 miles off the coast.

The navy command ordered an attack if the sub was located and refused to identify itself. However, contact had been lost since noon Wednesday.

A diplomatic source said it was unlikely that a friendly submarine would be in the area. He said there are no U.S. submarines in the South Atlantic at this time.

The mystery sub was reported running submerged at four knots and on a westerly course, headed toward the coast.

Addressing a combined meeting of the Overseas Press Club and the Overseas Writers Club, the visiting Soviet official said that only recognition of "the principles of peaceful coexistence" could permit the use of atomic science for the benefit of mankind to build a period of progress "unprecedented in history."

The address was telecast nationwide by NBC. The jovial, 50-year-old Soviet leader spoke in Russian. An interpreter, V. N. Sukhodrev, translated.

The address came on the heels of a sharp exchange with U.S. leaders, led by Vice President Richard Nixon, which apparently jolted the Russian official.

Kozlov talked Wednesday with President Eisenhower, Nixon, Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and leading senators. The outcome: a standoff.

Authoritative sources reported that in his 70-minute White House conference, and in an hour-long session with Herter, Kozlov only repeated the Soviets' familiar theme at the deadlocked Geneva talks on Germany.

Eisenhower and Herter countered with the American stand: that the Allies are going to stand firm against what they say is Moscow's threat to oust them from Communist-surrounded West Berlin.

The 50-year-old Soviet leader's unexpected joust with Nixon erupted at Nixon's reception for Kozlov Wednesday night at the President's guest house. The verbal battle could resume tonight, when Nixon will be Kozlov's guest at a Soviet Embassy reception.

Nixon, with Herter's help, admittedly debated at least one round in the score.

Kozlov had complained to Eisenhower earlier about America's attitude toward the Soviet Union. For example, he said, the United States forced the Soviet Union to pay in gold for famine-relieving food sent the U.S.S.R. after the Bolsheviks seized power late in World War I.

Nixon shot back that only last Monday former President Herbert Hoover, U.S. relief administrator after World War I, had shown him a letter from the Soviet government expressing thanks for the outright gift which Congress had approved. Nixon said the record should be kept straight.

"The question is not one to be discussed, it is not disputed," Kozlov finally admitted through his interpreter. He seemed somewhat shaken, but he never lost his smile during the spirited discussion. Neither did Nixon or Herter.

As guests eavesdropped, Nixon told Kozlov he is "a hard man — you never answer a question." And the vice president advised the Kremlin against believing reports of widespread differences in the administration, saying he and Herter spoke as one on foreign policy.

Kozlov said, "We know that as Republicans and Democrats you are as one on foreign policy."

"The difference between you and us is that you never have any arguments among yourselves," Nixon told Kozlov.

"We certainly do," replied Kozlov. "There is never a day when we do not argue among ourselves."

"The difference is," Nixon said, "we do not argue among ourselves."

"We do not argue among ourselves," Nixon said, "we do not argue among ourselves."

Kozlov pointed to Herter. "You never publicize any difference with Mr. Herter," he said.

"We never have any," Nixon said. "Absolutely," Herter added.

18 Worshippers Killed

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — A truck packed with worshippers returning from a temple crashed through an old wooden bridge in central Formosa Wednesday, killing 18 persons and injuring 23 others.

A 'WONDERFUL' CONVERSATION — President Eisenhower and Frol R. Kozlov, Soviet first deputy premier, share a laugh during a White House meeting at which the President told Kozlov the West intends to stay in Berlin despite Communist threats. Kozlov told reporters they had a "wonderful" conference.

3 Key Measures Face Legislature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's legislators may end their 1959 session July 17—but only if agreement is reached on three important bills.

That was the word percolating down through the membership of the 103rd General Assembly today as lawmakers prepared to end their 26th work week.

House leaders in the Democratic-dominated General Assembly are reported preparing to offer soon—perhaps today—a resolution calling for an end to the working sessions after another two legislative weeks.

But the kipup in a situation like this is Senate Majority Leader Frank W. King (D-Lucas). No matter how overwhelmingly the House may adopt the session-ending resolution, King says:

"I intend to hold it back until we get firm agreements on three bills: the 47-year-old organization law, the unemployment compensation law, to liberalize the workmen's compensation law and to distribute the extra school foundation money."

The Legislature, he asserts, "cannot adjourn without action on these bills."

King, of course, was not including a couple of bills passed by the House Wednesday and now pending in the Senate—measures to appropriate more than $1.1 million dollars for capital improvements and slightly more than $1.1 million for sundry claims against the state. No Legislature in memory has adjourned without passing those bills.

Wednesday's generally lackluster sessions saw one offbeat move by two Cincinnati Republican senators, William H. Deddens and Fred L. Hoffman, to nullify the sales tax revision, already in effect. They insist a Senate quorum was not present when the 33-million-dollar measure was signed by Lt. Gov. John Donahy Tuesday night.

The Senate, however, beat down by a 25-5 vote their attempt to correct, as they put it, the Senate journal. They were forced to content themselves with individual protests which will be printed in the journal. They obviously were attempting to lay the groundwork for a possible taxpayer's suit to nullify the tax.

Safety Council Hopes July 4 Prediction Is 100 Pct. Wrong

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Safety Council is one group of experts which hopes its predictions are 100 per cent wrong.

Among its tasks in the field of safety, the 47-year-old organization includes estimating the nation's traffic death toll on major holidays.

For the July 4 weekend the council estimates 350 persons will die in traffic accidents and 13,000 others will suffer disabling injuries.

"But our goal is no accidents at all," says an NSC spokesman. "All we are doing is telling people there is extra traffic, extra danger and therefore, extra accidents, and we are asking them to be extra careful."

Using mass communication media—newspapers, radio, television—the council pounds at the populace urging them to be careful.

Has it been successful?

The council spokesman said definitely yes. "Who can say what the toll would be if this were not done?" he asked.

Still, the final tolls usually come close to NSC estimates.

Holiday estimates are based on a complicated formula applied to previous records for these holidays, current traffic volume trends, current toll trends, nature and length of the holiday and finally, the weather.

The council was formed in Milwaukee in 1912 at a safety session of a steel industry convention. Now its Chicago headquarters has a staff of 350 statisticians, writers, artists and traffic and industrial engineers. More than 300 other councils are affiliated in some way.

The council operates on a 5½-million-dollar budget, nine-tenths of it supplied from memberships of a new list of industrial concerns and from the sale of its posters,

Jury Resumes Deliberations

Another Look at Auto Is Asked by Panel

CINCINNATI (AP) — The jury in whose hands rests the fate of Mrs. Edythe Klumpp resumed deliberations this morning after taking another look at the automobile in which the alleged crime was committed.

The members also were provided with an imitation skull—the one defense attorney William F. Hopkins used in trying to prove that fractures in Mrs. Louise Bergen's head were caused when Mrs. Klumpp shoved her body into the luggage compartment of the automobile.

The state contended that Mrs. Klumpp not only shot Mrs. Bergen, last Oct. 30, but bludgeoned her.

The little courtroom was crowded today, as the feeling grew that a verdict would be reached at any minute.

The case went to the jury of six men and six women at 4:02 p.m. Wednesday. The jury came back a little more than an hour later for a reading of the testimony by Mrs. Klumpp of her purchase of gasoline with which she said she burned Mrs. Bergen's body the day after the slaying.

It came back shortly before 10:30 p.m., and asked to see the automobile. Judge Frank M. Gusweiler told the jury it was physically impossible to do it at that hour but he would grant their request when they resume deliberations this morning.

At the time the jury was sent to a hotel for the night, it had had the case for approximately 6½ hours including time out for dinner and the two requests for information.

The blonde 41-year-old Mrs. Klumpp is charged with the slaying of Mrs. Bergen, wife of William Bergen, 30, with whom Mrs. Klumpp had been living for several months. Bergen, now employed in Washington, D. C., testified early in the trial, admitting, as did Mrs. Klumpp, that they had lived together and been known in their neighborhood as man and wife.

Mrs. Klumpp also has admitted she burned the body the day after the slaying but claimed Mrs. Bergen was shot by accident. Mrs. Bergen was slaying target pistol. She said Mrs. Bergen was pointing the gun at her.

On the request for reading of testimony the jurors were asking for a key point in the state's claim of premeditated murder. The state says Mrs. Klumpp bought the gasoline on Oct. 29, the day before the slaying. She said Mrs. Bergen was pointing the gun at her.

When she bought it Oct. 31.

Says the case finally went to the jury, Mrs. Klumpp managed a wince as she said, "I feel like I have butterflies in my stomach."

Lebanon Man Killed In Storage Cavern

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Edward Bowman, 38, of Lebanon, Ohio, was killed early today in a natural gas storage cavern 350 feet below the ground when a large rock slab fell on him, police reported.

Jack Robinson, 34, of Middletown, was critically injured in the same mishap.

The cavern, about four miles south of Middletown, is being built by the Texas Eastern Gas Co. The Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. will store surplus gas supplies in the cavern.

Butler County sheriff's deputies investigated the accident. It was the second fatal accident on the job in the last several months.

Snark Takes Test Flight, Returns

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A Snark intercontinental guided missile shot 1,000 miles over the Atlantic today, turned around and came back to the cape, the Air Force said, terminating the round-trip flight highly successful.

The sleek, 60-foot rocket dropped smoothly onto the cape landing strip 4½ hours after it was launched. Special acids and a parachute that popped from the tail eased the missile's landing.

Comedian Pinky Lee Suffers Mightily with Broken Heart

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—"I'm a man with a broken heart." This was Pinky Lee's explanation of why he had exiled himself from Hollywood.

Comedians are chronic worriers, and Pinky is one of the best in that department. His career has had more than the usual ups and downs.

Even during his ups, he never was able to achieve acceptance by his fellow stars. Once Milton Berle surveyed a roomful of comics at a Friars Club banquet and cracked: "If a bomb hit this place, Pinky Lee would be the world's greatest comedian."

Such barbs hurt the painfully sensitive Pinky. When he suffered some career reverses, he sold his $200,000 house in Beverly Hills and moved to a $35,000 home in the outskirts of Tucson, Ariz.

"I couldn't stand to have people point at me and say, 'Oh, there's Pinky Lee! Wonder why he isn't working,'" he remarked.

Pinky is working his head off three times nightly, headlining a Minsky show at the Dunes. How did he, a top favorite with the Kiddies on TV, find himself in a show surrounded by bare babes.

"All my life, I had been entertaining adults. Then I suddenly became a favorite of the kids through TV. That was okay until the Madison Avenue boys took over. They decided the kids weren't going to get clean, wholesome entertainment."

"So the kid shows went off, and now what do the children have to watch? Gory Westerns with a woman shot through the breast by an arrow. Detective stories with brutal beatings."

"I couldn't get a job in TV and I was dead in night clubs, where I used to make my living. They said I was too identified as a favorite of kids. And I can't do personals any more because I've been off TV for two years."

He and his wife moved to Tucson, where their daughter is married to a real estate man and their son has become a disc jockey. One break in Pinky's ill fortune came with the offer to appear in the Dunes show last year. "I don't need the money," he admitted. "Ever since I was 5, I always put away a little of everything I earned."

It isn't money I'm after. I've got to entertain people and have them like me. That's my life."

Boy, 7, Dies In Clothes Dryer

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Did curiosity lead a 7-year-old boy to a tragic death inside of an automatic clothes dryer?

Detective E.B. Meals says that probably was the reason Jerome Brown crawled into the coin-operated machine early Tuesday.

His body, mangled badly, was found about an hour and a half later by two women who were the first customers at the laundromat, which is unattended.

The youngster, son of Dorothy Gale Brown, was identified by teeth and clothing.

Meals said the machine started after the boy closed its door. Housewives of the area had been using the dryer free because a coin had stuck in the starting mechanism. They operated it by merely closing and opening the door.

Griffith Park Hermit Placed In Hospital

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Griffith Park's hermit, a bearded, barefoot veteran of World War II, has returned to civilization and been placed in a psychiatric ward for observation.

Dennis Farrell, 32, struggled with police before being taken in handcuffs and ankle straps Tuesday to General Hospital. A doctor said, "he is a very sick man."

The Purple Heart winner emerged Monday night from the 4,200-acre park where he says he has lived more than five years, dwelling in caves and thickets and eating berries, fruits and picnic leavings.

The recluse, his clothing tattered and filthy, said he thought "some people are after me."

Officers took him to a hotel. In the morning Farrell opened the door to accept a breakfast tray of bacon, eggs and toast. He scooped up the eggs with his hand and tossed the other food on the floor.

Milton Fabre, 33, of nearby Santa Ana, who served with Farrell in an infantry unit on Okinawa, pleaded more than 90 minutes before Farrell agreed to leave the hotel.

Castro's Attitude Warlike

Fidel Castro's belligerent attitude toward the United States should surprise no one except the naive.

But it is certainly not in the good neighbor tradition for him to berate Washington for expressing legitimate concern over what is happening to American investments in Cuba. Or for the Castro government brusquely to reject U. S. inquiries regarding compensation for American-owned sugar properties, valued in the millions, which are to be expropriated under a land reform program.

Washington properly requested that payment be made promptly and under terms of the 1940 constitution now in effect. Though this stipulates cash in advance on expropriations, Castro is offering only 20-year 4½ per cent bonds that will not be convertible into dollars.

Castro pleads national poverty and seeks to place the blame on a 10-year adverse balance of trade with the United States. But he does not explain why his official newspaper should suddenly launch an attack against "imperialist agents" and warn Washington not to interfere in Cuban affairs.

Such demagoguery, coupled with bad faith toward international obligations, will promote neither confidence in the integrity of the Castro regime nor in its permanence.

Hardest Chore: Leaving Bed

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments of a Pavement Plato: Mankind's hardest industry is getting out of bed every morning. It is the greatest test of the human will.

Civilization only makes the problem worse. In cave days, a man got out of bed for only one reason — he was hungry. It made sense for him to arise rather than lie there and starve.

But today everybody is on a diet. It is fashionable to starve. Therefore it makes more sense to stay in bed. Why starve on your feet when you can starve comfortably lying down?

The worst demand of civilization is that a man get out of bed every morning — or at least five days a week — at the same hour. It is inhuman and unnatural. Can you name any other animal in nature that gets up every day at the same time?

Bears don't. Tigers don't. Rats don't. Mice won't. Even at a racetrack the starter is unable to wake up all the horses at the same moment — particularly the horse you have bet on.

Man's normal attitude toward a bed is very simple. It is the last thing he wants to go to at night — and the last thing he wants to leave in the morning. He fights sleep as long as he can. But once he surrenders, he surrenders all the way.

Now and then you hear a fellow brag about how he likes to leap out of bed, nimble and clear-eyed, eager to greet the rising sun and meet the fresh challenges of another day. I always feel a bit sad when I go to these fellows' funerals later — cut off, as they are often in the very prime of life.

Getting out of bed is a real test of character. Obviously, anybody who can jump easily and merrily out of bed has no character. And that's what eventually mows them down in the stern strain of living — lack of character. Also lack of strength. They wear out all their strength leaping out of bed in the morning. By noon they are hollow-eyed. By 50 they are dead, and unmourned.

After awaking, one should think the problem through for a full half an hour. Then should follow 15 minutes of careful exercise — consisting of yawning and scratching. After that you should sit up slowly, and let your feet down over the side of the bed one foot at a time.

An hour from the time the alarm clock first sounds you should, if all goes well, be looking at yourself in the bathroom mirror and wondering why such a fascinating devil has to work for a living.

There are, of course, mechanical aids to getting up — such as being awakened by a clock-radio delivering the morning world news broadcasts. But world news is so terrible now that, listening, one has more of an urge to cover under the bed sheets than to arise and face such a terrible universe.

More helpful is the psychological approach. When you wake up you start brooding about how all the people you hate probably got up early this morning and are out making money. Before you know it you are out of bed, too — trying to catch up with them.

But the best solution of all is to marry. A wife will insist not only that you get to bed on time, but that you get out of bed on time — to earn her a living. She will take the responsibility from your worn shoulders.

Practical Politics Is a Game

By George Sokolsky

Politics is the art of the control of people by organized means. Each country has its own techniques. Each people has its own tradition.

For instance, from 1912 to 1927, China attempted to be a democratic republic modeled after the United States. All these efforts failed because they were not within the traditions of the Chinese people.

Similarly, Great Britain, as much a republic as the United States, maintains the institution of royalty at great cost because it is essential to the nature of British society.

The so-called practical politician, in the United States, is a person who believes that he knows how to manipulate the organized effort to gain control of the mechanics of elections. To use his colloquialism, he knows how to ring door-bells.

Very often, however, such a person does not know why he belongs to a particular party; he has no idea as to what that party stands for; he has no basic objection to the opposing party. He knows the manoeuvres of "getting out the vote." As he is more concerned with techniques than with substance, even his opponents can avoid quarrelling with him.

Look the world over and most "practical politicians" are just such persons and although they might on occasion help to win elections, they add little benefit to the nation within which they operate.

In the United States, the practical politician is rapidly being defeated by radio and television. He is like the horse in the cavalry — out-moded. Most of our young people are better informed about the affairs of the day than the practical politician. They look upon those who show up near election time as fossils emerging once every two years to tell them something they do not believe.

In the actual planning of campaigns, the so-called practical politician has little or nothing to say. Essential campaign planning is being done today by advertising men and public relations counsel who write the speeches for candidates and project their personalities through several mechanical devices.

In many instances, the pollsters decide what it is safe to say and what will bring opprobrium and failure to the candidates, even on the lowest level. New elements have entered politics. For instance, in all the cities of this country, organized labor functions politically. The labor leaders anticipate that they will control the politicians, not be controlled by them. The same is true of religious, racial and other pressure groups. The only special interests that must find secret and surreptitious techniques for operating politically are capital and management which in this country have lost political caste.

Those who plan political campaigns are no longer so concerned with getting the vote out. That is easy. Each special pressure group gets out its own vote. The real task of organized politics is to find a candidate who can be elected and to find a platform that is sufficiently meaningless not to be a handicap and sufficiently meaningful to give particular pressure groups the impression that they have won the day.

Advice for Skin Divers

With so many persons taking up skin diving these days, I think a few words of advice might be in order.

The old hands, I'm sure, won't be much interested in what I have to say, but I strongly urge the novices who will begin diving this summer to read and heed.

I don't want to mislead you: I don't know much about skin diving. I have never done it and at my age I strongly doubt that I ever will.

But Dr. Frederic T. Jung, a Chicago physician, physiologist and assistant editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, has come up with some valuable advice on the subject.

He is an experienced skin diver, so you can be pretty confident that he knows what he is talking about. He suggests:

Never dive alone. I have always urged that the buddy system be used by swimmers and Dr. Jung believes this is also appropriate for skin divers. Make sure, though, that your companion is reliable — and a good swimmer.

Do not use ear plugs. These plugs are for surface swimming, not for skin diving. At depths of ten feet or more, water may cause ear pain and possible injury.

Make sure your weight belts and other equipment have quick-release buckles.

Carry a knife when diving in open water.

Another open water rule: Always have a boat or float over you.

Plan methods of communication between divers and watchers.

Don't take unnecessary risks. Watch your depth carefully.

And, when ascending, don't hold your breath. Permit a steady escape of air.

These are the eight cardinal rules of skin diving as a physician sees them.

Following them, I believe, may help keep you out of considerable trouble.

Mrs. A. T.: I have suffered severe liver damage as a result of infectious hepatitis and would like to know if the liver damage would have been less severe if I had had bed rest at the onset of the disease.

Ans.: In the treatment of infectious hepatitis, bed rest for a minimum of three weeks is advisable. The patient should remain in bed until the acute symptoms have subsided.

350 Deaths Expected On Road on July 4

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once again, as in 1956, President Eisenhower refuses to say whether he wants Vice President Richard M. Nixon chosen for high office. It was rough on Nixon once. It may be again.

Nixon, a man with many friends and many enemies, is both liked and despised.

In 1956, although he had some opposition within the party, he was front-runner all the way for the Republican vice-presidential renomination, yet the latest book on him indicates he must have had grave doubts about his chances.

Newspaperman Earl Mazo — in "Richard Nixon, a Political and Personal Portrait" — says Nixon three years ago, because of Eisenhower's reluctance or delay in endorsing him, seriously considered getting out of politics.

Now once again Nixon looks like a front-runner, this time for the Republican presidential nomination in 1960.

But Nixon never had in 1956 — as he does now — anyone of the stature or popularity of New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller throwing a shadow across his path. Rockefeller isn't officially in the race — yet.

Wednesday, Eisenhower — in what sounded like an echo of 1956 — told a news conference he will keep hands off the choice of the 1960 Republican presidential candidate.

Both early and repeatedly in 1956, Eisenhower refused to say yes or no to wanting Nixon as his running mate again. At the same time he denied reports his advisers had urged him to "dump" Nixon.

Eisenhower said he would be "happy" to have Nixon on the ticket with him. But he said it only after Nixon had received a large number of write-in votes in the New Hampshire primary.

Now comes some inside light on those days in Mazo's book which, the author acknowledges, was written with considerable help from Nixon.

Although Eisenhower denied the dump-Nixon report, Mazo says the President asked Nixon whether it wouldn't be wiser for him — if he wanted to run for president in 1960 — to step aside and take a Cabinet job.

And Eisenhower, Mazo says,

pointed out to Nixon that while Herbert Hoover moved into the presidency from a Cabinet job, no vice president in 100 years had been directly elected to the presidency.

Mazo says one of Nixon's friends told him Eisenhower's "reluctance to come out flatly and ask Nixon to be his running mate was one of the greatest hurts of his (Nixon's) whole career."

Even if Nixon is Eisenhower's personal choice for president in 1961, Eisenhower would be sticking his neck out if he said so now. The reason is simple enough.

A lot of things can happen — some of them to Nixon's dismay — between now and the Republican convention next summer. Besides, Eisenhower has no way of telling now how the convention delegates will feel by that time.

By next summer Rockefeller may be in the race up to his neck. And, while professional Republican politicians may be indebted to Nixon for many favors of one kind or another, they are still professionals.

If by convention time they think they can win with Rockefeller and would lose with Nixon, they're apt to forget the Nixon favors. But at least Nixon, working on the inside, will have a year to try to nail down the nomination.

Upper Ohio Valley Slated For Growth

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Paul Craig of Ohio State University says the Upper Ohio Valley will have a tremendous industrial growth in the next 15 years.

He made the prediction Tuesday after a boatload of industrialists, bankers and civic leaders docked here following a two-day tour of industries along the Ohio River.

An expected growth of 33 per cent in the nation's population in the next 15 years will necessitate a 4-to-5 per cent industrial expansion each year, Dr. Craig said.

The Ohio River can provide the "tremendous supply of water and cheap transportation" an expanding industry needs, he added.

The Upper Valley Development Council, Inc., sponsored the trip aboard the riverboat Chaperone. The council is a non-profit group which is attempting to get industries to locate in Belmont, Jefferson, Harrison and Columbiana Counties in Ohio and Hancock and Brooke counties in West Virginia.

E&R Church Names Woman As Moderator

OBERLIN, OHIO (AP) — The Evangelical and Reformed Church today elected its first woman moderator. She is Miss Frances Kapitzky, a banker from Strasburg, Ohio, who is interested in amateur dramatics and choir singing.

Her election as head of this church automatically makes her co-moderator of the United Church of Christ. The Evangelical and Reformed Church and the Congressional Christian Churches are in the process of merging into the United Church of Christ.

Miss Kapitzky became president of the Citizens State Bank, the only bank serving the village of 1,500, last February. She had been on its staff for 30 years.

The E & R General Synod also elected a vice moderator, Rev. Dr. Ben Herbst of Norwood, Ohio, a Cincinnati suburb.

Miss Kapitzky succeeds Rev. Dr. Arthur W. Newell of Richmond, Va. The moderator presides over meetings of the General Synod. The church also has a president, Rev. Dr. James E. Wagner of Philadelphia, who reviewed the denomination's 25 years of existence in a speech to the penning session.

Let's Have A
Safe Fourth

• Uremia
From 1900 to 1930 more people were killed and injured celebrating our nation's independence than in the War of Independence itself. During the first thirty years of this century, fireworks killed 4,290 persons and severely injured 120,000. Revolutionary War victims numbered 4,044 killed and 6,000 wounded. Most states have control laws but illegal sale of fireworks is widespread. The biggest operators are professional bootleggers. Business is good. Illicit trade in firecrackers, Roman candles, skyrocket, cherry bombs and other dangerous fireworks has reached the highest level in years. We must all be alert to the many dangers still inherent in our manner of celebrating our national birthday. Let's all have a safe and sane Fourth of July.

Q. Could a severe case of diarrhea cause uremia and eventual death?—L.M.L.

A. Continued severe diarrhea results in loss of body fluids, salts, and nutritional substances. Uremia (kidney failure) of some degree might also occur. A fatal outcome would be possible if the affected person was in poor condition, but the terminal illness would not necessarily be due to uremia alone unless it was quite marked and associated with kidney damage.

Q. Would repeated burr haircuts help prevent baldness?

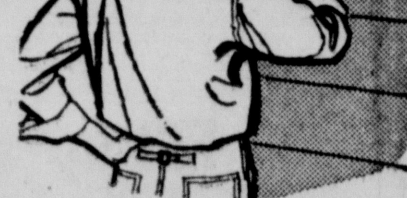

A. Short hair or the cutting of hair has no relationship to receding hair or the prevention of baldness.

But Dr. Frederic T. Jung, a Chicago physician, physiologist and assistant editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, has come up with some valuable advice on the subject.

He is an experienced skin diver, so you can be pretty confident that he knows what he is talking about. He suggests:

Never dive alone. I have always urged that the buddy system be used by swimmers and Dr. Jung believes this is also appropriate for skin divers. Make sure, though, that your companion is reliable — and a good swimmer.

Do not use ear plugs. These plugs are for surface swimming, not for skin diving. At depths of ten feet or more, water may cause ear pain and possible injury.

Make sure your weight belts and other equipment have quick-release buckles.

Carry a knife when diving in open water.

Another open water rule: Always have a boat or float over you.

Plan methods of communication between divers and watchers.

Don't take unnecessary risks. Watch your depth carefully.

And, when ascending, don't hold your breath. Permit a steady escape of air.

These are the eight cardinal rules of skin diving as a physician sees them.

Following them, I believe, may help keep you out of considerable trouble.

Question and Answer

Mrs. A. T.: I have suffered severe liver damage as a result of infectious hepatitis and would like to know if the liver damage would have been less severe if I had had bed rest at the onset of the disease.

Answer: In the treatment of infectious hepatitis, bed rest for a minimum of three weeks is advisable. The patient should remain in bed until the acute symptoms have subsided.

350 Deaths Expected On Road on July 4

CHICAGO (AP) — Traffic accidents during the weekend Independence Day holiday, the National Safety Council estimates, will kill 350 persons. The council, in a pre-holiday statement Tuesday, also estimated 13,000 persons will suffer disabling injuries in highway accidents.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once again, as in 1956, President Eisenhower refuses to say whether he wants Vice President Richard M. Nixon chosen for high office. It was rough on Nixon once. It may be again.

Nixon, a man with many friends and many enemies, is both liked and despised.

In 1956, although he had some opposition within the party, he was front-runner all the way for the Republican vice-presidential renomination, yet the latest book on him indicates he must have had grave doubts about his chances.

Newspaperman Earl Mazon — in "Richard Nixon, a Political and Personal Portrait" — says Nixon three years ago, because of Eisenhower's reluctance or delay in endorsing him, seriously considered getting out of politics.

Now once again Nixon looks like a front-runner, this time for the Republican presidential nomination in 1960.

But Nixon never had in 1956 — as he does now — anyone of the stature or popularity of New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller throwing a shadow across his path. Rockefeller isn't officially in the race — yet.

Wednesday, Eisenhower — in what sounded like an echo of 1956 — told a news conference he will keep hands off the choice of the 1960 Republican presidential candidate.

Both early and repeatedly in 1956, Eisenhower refused to say yes or no to wanting Nixon as his running mate again. At the same time he denied reports his advisers had urged him to "dump" Nixon.

Eisenhower said he would be "happy" to have Nixon on the ticket with him. But he said it only after Nixon had received a large number of write-in votes in the New Hampshire primary.

Now comes some inside light on those days in Mazon's book which, the author acknowledges, was written with considerable help from Nixon.

Although Eisenhower denied the dump-Nixon report, Mazon says the President asked Nixon whether it wouldn't be wiser for him — if he wanted to run for president in 1960 — to step aside and take a Cabinet job.

And Eisenhower, Mazon says,

pointed out to Nixon that while Herbert Hoover moved into the presidency from a Cabinet job, no vice president in 100 years had been directly elected to the presidency.

Mazon says one of Nixon's friends told him Eisenhower's "reluctance to come out flatly and ask Nixon to be his running mate was one of the greatest hurts of his (Nixon's) whole career."

Even if Nixon is Eisenhower's personal choice for president in 1961, Eisenhower would be sticking his neck out if he said so now. The reason is simple enough.

A lot of things can happen — some of them to Nixon's dismay — between now and the Republican convention next summer. Besides, Eisenhower has no way of telling now how the convention delegates will feel by that time.

By next summer Rockefeller may be in the race up to his neck. And, while professional Republican politicians may be indebted to Nixon for many favors of one kind or another, they are still professionals.

If by convention time they think they can win with Rockefeller and would lose with Nixon, they're apt to forget the Nixon favors. But at least Nixon, working on the inside, will have a year to try to nail down the nomination.

Upper Ohio Valley Slated For Growth

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Paul Craig of Ohio State University says the Upper Ohio Valley will have a tremendous industrial growth in the next 15 years.

He made the prediction Tuesday after a boatload of industrialists, bankers and civic leaders docked here following a two-day tour of industries along the Ohio River.

An expected growth of 33 per cent in the nation's population in the next 15 years will necessitate a 4-to-5 per cent industrial expansion each year, Dr. Craig said.

The Ohio River can provide the "tremendous supply of water and cheap transportation" an expanding industry needs, he added.

The Upper Valley Development Council, Inc., sponsored the trip aboard the riverboat Chaperone. The council is a non-profit group which is attempting to get industries to locate in Belmont, Jefferson, Harrison and Columbiana Counties in Ohio and Hancock and Brooke counties in West Virginia.

E&R Church Names Woman As Moderator

OBERLIN, OHIO (AP) — The Evangelical and Reformed Church today elected its first woman moderator. She is Miss Frances Kapitzy, a banker from Strasburg, Ohio, who is interested in amateur dramatics and choir singing.

Her election as head of this church automatically makes her co-moderator of the United Church of Christ. The Evangelical and Reformed Church and the Congressional Christian Churches are in the process of merging into the United Church of Christ.

Miss Kapitzy became president of the Citizens State Bank, the only bank serving the village of 1,500, last February. She had been on its staff for 30 years.

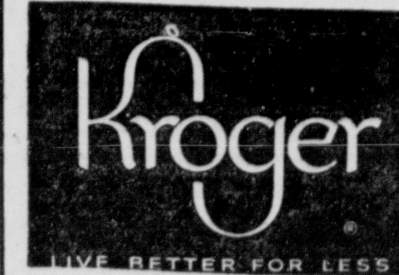

The E & R General Synod also elected a vice moderator, Rev. Dr. Ben Herbst of Norwood, Ohio, a Cincinnati suburb.

Miss Kapitzy succeeds Rev. Dr. Arthur W. Newell of Richmond, Va. The moderator presides over meetings of the General Synod. The church also has a president, Rev. Dr. James E. Wagner of Philadelphia, who reviewed the denomination's 25 years of existence in a speech to the pening session.

The movie also stars Kirk Douglas, Jean Simmons, Tony Curtis, Charles Laughton and John Gavin. (Central Press)

Let's Have A
Safe Fourth

• Uremia • Burr Haircuts
From 1900 to 1930 more people were killed and injured celebrating our nation's independence than in the War of Independence itself. During the first thirty years of this century, fireworks killed 4,290 persons and severely injured 120,000. Revolutionary War victims numbered 4,044 killed and 6,000 wounded. Most states have control laws but illegal sale of fireworks is widespread. The biggest operators are professional bootleggers. Business is good. Illicit trade in firecrackers, Roman candles, skyrocketers, cherry bombs and other dangerous fireworks has reached the highest level in years. We must all be alert to the many dangers still inherent in our manner of celebrating our national birthday. Let's all have a safe and sane Fourth of July.

Q. Could a severe case of diarrhea cause uremia and eventual death? — L.M.L.
A. Continued severe diarrhea results in loss of body fluids, salts, and nutritional substances. Uremia is used!

11th-Hour Bid Made To Save Byomin's Life

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Attorneys for Walter J. Byomin are appealing to the U. S. Supreme Court once more in an 11th-hour attempt to save the convicted slayer's life.

Byomin, a 43-year-old Cleveland, is scheduled to die in Ohio Penitentiary's electric chair Friday night for the May 4, 1957, slaying of Edmund G. Smith, a Wellington deputy. Smith was shot to death during a police chase following a complaint over Byomin's attentions to Mrs. Helen Bristol.

Wednesday, the Ohio Supreme Court turned down Byomin's petition for a writ of habeas corpus in his effort to obtain a new trial. His attorney, State Rep. Joseph J. Murphy, a Piquette attorney, said he applied to the U. S. Supreme Court for a stay of execution.

Murphy said he is appealing on the basis of new evidence. He did not disclose the nature of the evidence.

Murphy also said he has filed a motion in Lorain County Common Pleas Court at Elyria for a new trial. That motion, too, is on the basis of new evidence, he said.

Both the Ohio and the U. S. Supreme Courts had previously refused to consider Byomin's appeal.

In another case, the Ohio Supreme Court refused to consider an appeal from an order for a new trial for Dallas E. Milam, serving a life sentence for his part in the fatal shooting of Cleveland Police Lt. Edward Lentz on Dec. 9, 1957.

Milam was convicted for the shooting along with James Davis and Robert Lee Lyons Jr. Davis is also serving a life term, but Lyons, the purported triggerman, was given the death penalty. He has been given an indefinite stay pending an appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Lentz was shot near a gambling place in Cleveland.

Construction Is Moving at Record Pace

New Peaks Expected To Be Reached Throughout Year

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — That old joke "New York would be a nice city if they could ever get it built" is now applicable to most of the nation.

Construction for the United States as a whole is proceeding today at a record pace.

It's likely that the entire year will set new peaks. Two things that might prevent that are a steel strike—structural steel is one of the products in shortest supply—and a tightening money situation that could curtail mortgage funds.

But the construction industry is confident for the long run. America's backlog of needs for homes, offices, highways, schools, hospitals and various public buildings seems to grow faster than builders can put new installations into place.

The Labor and Commerce departments report that the value of construction put in place in June set a record for the month. For the first half of the year the spending is put at 25 billion dollars, or 34 billion more than in the first six months of 1958, and a record setter.

Much of the increase over last year has been in home building—10 1/2 billion dollars this year against 7 1/2 billion last. Many construction industry analysts expect this pace to slow. One of them, George Cline Smith, economist of F. W. Dodge Corp., however, says, "I don't expect the decline to be severe."

But another form of building is expected to pick up after a year of contraction. That is industrial building. During the recession it was apparent that many industries had built facilities beyond the demand at that time for their products.

With the recovery and the indications that a new business boom is starting, the excess of capacity is expected to disappear. A new industrial expansion will start—if construction industry experts are right.

Public construction spending has been increasing. In the first half of 1959 it is put at 7 1/2 billion dollars, nearly one billion more than in the like period last year.

Recent large flotations of state and local bonds indicate that the construction of state and civic facilities to meet past population growth will continue. And since all signs point to still greater population growth, the construction industry expects to be kept busy for years to come.

He Gets Gold Watch In Prison Ceremony

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — For 25 years of service, 58-year-old Carl Cathey has received a gold watch from his former employer.

The watch was presented to him in jail before he was sentenced to life imprisonment Tuesday for the fatal shooting of his tenant, Preston Prince, in an argument over rent money.

Cathey was convicted of second-degree murder in the Feb. 8 slaying, and will be eligible for parole in 10 years.

Cabbie's 1937 Debt Is Paid

Your 50-cent debt to the cafeteria in the Agriculture Department, incurred on your visit here in 1937, has been paid.

On a recent trip to Austin, Dr. Ellis L. Klein of the Naval Research Laboratory, rode in Teater's cab. The driver recalled that on a visit to Washington, he had eaten at the department cafeteria, but in an oversight had walked out without paying.

"It's been on my conscience ever since," Teater said. "Here's the 50 cents. Take it back and pay the bill for me."

This Klein has done.

The battle of Stoney Creek, not the most glorious passage of American military history, saw some 800 British regulars attack under cover of night and rout four times that many Americans. Historians say the skirmish vitally affected the course of the war.

An Indian uprising took place last spring near Brantford, another stopping point for the royal couple. A group of hereditary chiefs from the six Iroquois nations challenged the authority of the elected governing body on their reservation. They took possession of the town hall for several days until the mounted police restored the elected council.

After short visits to a number of small towns en route, the royal couple was to ride through Shakespeare Street in Stratford and attend Canada's celebrated Shakespearean festival.

Since its start six years ago, the festival has become one of Canada's foremost theatrical events.

With the recovery and the indications that a new business boom is starting, the excess capacity is expected to disappear. A new industrial expansion will start—if construction industry experts are right.

Public construction spending has been increasing. In the first half of 1959 it is put at 7 1/2 billion dollars, nearly one billion more than in the like period last year.

Recent large flotations of state and local bonds indicate that the construction of state and civic facilities to meet past population growth will continue. And since all signs point to still greater population growth, the construction industry expects to be kept busy for years to come.

Construction Is Moving at Record Pace

New Peaks Expected To Be Reached Throughout Year

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—That old joke "New York would be a nice city if they could ever get it built" is now applicable to most of the nation.

Construction for the United States as a whole is proceeding today at a record pace.

It's likely that the entire year will set new peaks. Two things that might prevent that are a steel strike—structural steel is one of the products in shortest supply—and a tightening money situation that could cut off mortgage funds.

But the construction industry is confident for the long run. America's backlog of needs for homes, offices, highways, schools, hospitals and various public buildings seems to grow faster than builders can put new installations into place.

The Labor and Commerce departments report that the value of construction put in place in June set a record for the month. For the first half of the year the spending is put at 25 billion dollars, or 34 billion more than in the first six months of 1958, and a record setter.

Much of the increase over last year has been in home building—104 billion dollars this year against 74 billion last. Many construction industry analysts expect this pace to slow. One of them, George Cline Smith, economist of F. W. Dodge Corp., however, says, "I don't expect the decline to be severe."

But another form of building is expected to pick up after a year of contraction. That is industrial building. During the recession it was apparent that many industries had built facilities beyond the demand at that time for their products.

With the recovery and the indications that a new business boom is starting, the excess capacity is expected to disappear. A new industrial expansion will start—if construction industry experts are right.

Ohioan Offers British Cannon To Queen Bess

PUT-IN-BAY, Ohio (AP) — If Queen Elizabeth's yacht will put in at Middle Bass Island in Lake Erie during her current tour, George F. Lonz, winery operator on the island, has a present for her.

Lonz owns a cannon that belonged to a British ship destroyed in the 1813 Battle of Lake Erie.

The cannon has been on the island since it was found in wreckage that washed ashore after Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry's victory.

Lonz today made the offer to return the cannon to the Queen as a good will gesture, if it can be arranged for the royal yacht to pull into the harbor.

He said he wants England to have the cannon as a remembrance of the good will that exists between this country and England.

Only one thing troubles Lonz—how to get in touch with the proper authorities to forward the invitation to the Queen. Facilities are available at Middle Bass for a visit from the yacht, he said.

Plan vegetable cooking time so that the vegetable is served soon after it reaches the "just-tender" stage.

Broil crackers that have lost their crispness until lightly brown; or spread with butter, and toast in the oven.

The check was cashed.

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

Somebody Is a Crackpot!

DEAR ABBY: My husband will soon be 57 and I am 56. We've been married 34 years and he has been very lucky in business. He says if I won't give him a divorce he will go to Mexico and desert me. He also says that when a woman is 35 a man should kick her out. I am deaf on top of it. He has offered me $1,000 a month, but what good will money do me if I am alone? His lawyer laughed at me. How can I keep my husband, Abby? Maybe I am a crackpot but I love him.

FAITHFUL

DEAR FAITHFUL: Make your husband a deal. Tell him you will have a complete physical (and mental) examination if he will. A doctor might be able to help both of you. And ask the lawyer who laughed at you to go along. He doesn't sound too well either.

DEAR ABBY: I am a Polish man who likes to go out with American girls. Many times when I am at their homes and there are American men present, the American men offer to collect and wash the dishes. The men in the Polish home from which I come never did this. As a result I do not know if I am supposed to offer to help when I eat in an American home. Is this an accepted American custom?

CASIMIR

DEAR CASIMIR: In America it is proper for a guest to offer assistance to the hostess if she has no hired help.

DEAR ABBY: My child is a head-bumper. He gets up at night and starts rocking on his knees and bumping his head until he tires himself out. Then he falls asleep. He has been doing this since he's been ten months old and he is almost four and still does it. The thumping sounds like our house is falling apart. Also we are afraid he will hurt himself. Is there any cure for this or should we let him outgrow it?

MOTHER OF BUMPER

DEAR MOTHER: If he's bumping his head on the wall—move the bed away from the wall. If he's bumping his head on his bed, pad the bed so he can't hurt himself. Ask your pediatrician for other suggestions, but don't wait for him to outgrow it.

DEAR ABBY: My parents were "the best" but with all their good intentions they failed miserably as parents because of their own mid-Victorian upbringing. They could not bring themselves to mention sex in any form, I can't tell you how ignorant (not INNOCENT—IGNORANT) I was for a girl of 16. You simply would not believe it possible. Fortunately I married a man who had to de-educate me and re-educate me in such matters. Thank heavens I do not have to raise my children the way I was raised. I tell them everything they want to know as soon as they are sufficiently interested to ask the questions. Please pass this on. It might help others.

HAPPIER NOW

DEAR "HAPPIER NOW": With pleasure it might help others to be "HAPPIER LATER."

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this newspaper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Scripture—Deuteronomy 4-12.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
THE SCRIPTURE assignment for this lesson covers so much material that it is difficult to confine it to a half hour of teaching. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith, editor and commentator of Peloubet's Select Notes, suggests that the younger classes "be reminded that in everything we do, if it is to succeed, we must know and follow the laws of nature. In building even a house of blocks, one block must be balanced upon another in such a way that when eight or 10 blocks are piled up, they will not all fall over. In this way we are obeying the law of gravity."

"If a building is to stand permanently against storms and the ravages of time, the wooden parts of it must be nailed, the steel must be riveted, the bricks and stones must be cemented."

"So also in our moral life, there are laws of God which are eternal, and if obeyed will make our lives strong, but if disobeyed, will bring down our lives in ruin."

The older classes, Dr. Smith suggests, might be reminded that as the laws of health demand that our bodies be given nourishment for us to survive, our moral conduct is also subject to laws—the laws and commandments of God—or we may fall into ruin.

hold him guiltless that taketh His name in vain." Considering how men, and often women, disobey this command, we wonder if they ever had any Bible teaching.

"Keep the Sabbath day to sanctify it, as the Lord thy God hath commanded thee. Six days thou shalt labour, and do all thy work; but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God."—Deut. 5:12-14.

This may be somewhat difficult for some mothers of teen-agers who are always hungry. When I was young, my mother always cooked "Sunday dinner" on Saturday, so that when we all came home from church and Sunday school, we ate it cold and thus minimized the work to be done on the Sabbath.

These are the commands of the Lord which Moses read to his people: "Honour thy father and thy mother; . . . Thou shalt not kill. Neither shalt thou commit adultery. Neither shalt thou bear false witness against thy neighbour. Neither shalt thou covet . . . anything that is thy neighbour's."—Deut. 5:16-21.

These commands, said Moses, "the Lord wrote in two tablets of stone, and delivered them unto me."—Deut. 5:22.

"Beware that thou forget not

MEMORY VERSE

"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God, and keep His charge, and His statutes, and His judgments, and His commandments, always."—Deuteronomy 11:1.

All the events and discourses in the book of Deuteronomy can be placed at the end of Moses' life, which was somewhere near 1,400 B.C., we are told.

Moses called all the Israelites to him and said: "Hear, O Israel, the statutes and judgments which I speak in your ears this day, that ye may learn them, and keep, and do them. The Lord our God made a covenant with us in Horeb. The Lord made not this covenant with our fathers, but with us, even us, who are all of us here alive this day."—Deut. 5:1-3.

Then Moses reminded them that the Lord had talked to them "face to face" in the mount, saying, "I am the Lord thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage. Thou shalt have no other gods before Me. Thou shalt not make thee any graven image, or any likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the waters beneath the earth."—Deut. 5:4-8.

These were the words of the Lord our God: "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain: for the Lord will not the Lord thy God, in not keeping His commandments, and His judgments, and His statutes, which I command you this day." If they grew wealthy, Moses warned, "Then thine heart be lifted up, and thou forget the Lord thy God, which brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage."—Deut. 8:11-14.

These commands and statutes of God's, Moses said, should be taught to all a man's sons (and daughters) and talked over with them constantly. If young people are brought up in an atmosphere where God's laws are obeyed, and made to understand them, it is difficult to believe that they will go astray and become what the modern world calls "hoodlums," ruining their own lives and the happiness of those near them.

God "did not set His love upon you, nor choose you, because ye were more in number than any people," said Moses, "But because the Lord loved you, and because He would keep the oath which He had sworn unto your fathers."—Deut. 7:7-8.

The Lord loves us, too, so let us strive our best to deserve His love by obeying His laws.

Justice OKs Delay in Ohio Electrocution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Potter Stewart of the Supreme Court has granted a stay of execution to Robert Lee Lyons Jr., who was sentenced to death in Ohio for the killing of Edward Lentz, a Cleveland police lieutenant.

Stewart granted the stay Tuesday and said it will remain in effect until the full Supreme Court acts next fall on an appeal to be filed later on behalf of Lyons.

The condemned man had been scheduled to go to the Ohio Penitentiary electric chair Friday night.

Lentz was slain Dec. 9, 1957. In asking a stay, Lyons contended that he did not have a fair trial, was beaten by Cleveland police and forced to sign an alleged confession.

Earlier in the week, Chester K. Gillespie, counsel for Lyons, had conferred with Gov. Michael V. DiSalle on Lyons' case. He had urged a stay of execution.

The shooting for which Lyons was condemned occurred after Lentz halted Lyons and two companions following a complaint from Alonzo Buchanan that he had been robbed of gambling winnings. Lyons' companions, James Davis and Dallas Milam, were convicted and received life sentences.

Free Lemonade Offered By Not-so-Cool City

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (AP) — Free lemonade will be on tap today in this mountaintop city, thanks to an overheard thermometer.

Bluefield, often called "Nature's Air-Conditioned City," likes to boast that a temperature of 90 is seldom reached. The Chamber of Commerce has a standing offer of free lemonade to all comers when that occurs.

The chamber was caught unprepared by Tuesday's 90-degree reading but promised free lemonade today.

Air Academy Drapes Bring New Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force, already roundly criticized by Congress for the cost of its new academy at Colorado Springs, is suffering fresh embarrassment in the case of the $4,500 drapes.

It seems the Air Force spent around $90,000 to build a 21-foot overhanging roof around its glass-walled academy dining hall to keep out the sun.

In justifying the expenditure, Air Force Secretary James H. Douglas last year told the House Appropriations Committee the overhang would eliminate any need for drapes.

In this year's appropriations committee hearings made public today, Rep. Harry M. Sheppard (D-Calif.) disclosed that drapes costing $2,000 already have been installed in the dining hall with another $2,500 needed to finish the job.

That, Sheppard noted, was for only one of the three glass-walled sides of the room.

Under-secretary M.A. MacIntyre had no explanation. But he said he was sure Douglas "would be quite upset in learning about the facts."

The subject was dropped. Apparently the drapes stay up. So does the $90,000 roof overhang.

of special help to Montgomery and Allen counties, according to the measure's backers.

Raise pensions of policemen and firemen who retired before Sept. 25, 1947, to $125 a month.

Remove restrictions on the marriage of epileptics.

Permit Ohio building code amendments to be effective 10 days after their filing with the secretary of state, instead of 90 days under present law.

A Nation Under God

ISRAEL IS COMMANDED TO BE A PEOPLE SEPARATE FROM THE SURROUNDING NATIONS

Scripture—Deuteronomy 4-12.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
THE SCRIPTURE assignment for this lesson covers so much material that it is difficult to confine it to a half hour of teaching.
Dr. Wilbur M. Smith, editor and commentator of Zealot's Select Notes, suggests that the younger classes "be reminded that in everything we do, if it is to succeed, we must know and follow the laws of nature. In building even a house of blocks, one block must be balanced upon another in such a way that when eight or 10 blocks are piled up, they will not all fall over. In this way we are obeying the law of gravity.

"If a building is to stand permanently against storms and the ravages of time, the wooden parts of it must be nailed, the steel must be riveted, the bricks and stones must be cemented.

"So also in our moral life, there are laws of God which are eternal, and if obeyed will make our lives strong, but if disobeyed, will bring down our lives in ruin."

The older classes, Dr. Smith suggests, might be reminded that as the laws of health demand that our bodies be given nourishment for us to survive, so laws—the laws and commandments of God—and we may fall into ruin.

hold him guiltless that taketh His name in vain." Considering how men, and often women, disobey this command, we wonder if they ever had any Bible teaching.

"Keep the Sabbath day to sanc-tify it, as the Lord thy God hath commanded thee. Six days thou shalt labour, and do all thy work; but the seventh day is the sabbath of the Lord thy God."—Deut.
5:12-14.

This may be somewhat difficult for some mothers of teen-agers who are always hungry. When I was young, my mother always cooked "Sunday dinner" on Saturday, so that when we all came home from church and Sunday school, we ate it cold and thus minimized the work to be done on the Sabbath.

These are the commands of the Lord which Moses read to his people: "Honour thy father and thy mother: . . . Thou shalt not kill. Neither shalt thou commit adultery. Neither shalt thou steal.
Neither shalt thou bear false witness against thy neighbour. Neither shalt thou covet. . . . anything that is thy neighbour's."—
Deut. 5:16-21.

These commands, said Moses,
"the Lord wrote in two tablets of stone, and delivered them unto me."
—Deut. 5:22.

"Beware that thou forget not the Lord thy God, in not keeping His commandments, and His judgments, and His statutes, which I command you this day."

If they grew wealthy, Moses warned, "Then thine heart be lifted up, and thou forget the Lord thy God, which brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage."—
Deut. 8:11-14.

These commands and statutes of God's, Moses said, should be taught to all a man's sons (and daughters) and talked over with them constantly. If young people are brought up in an atmosphere where God's laws are obeyed, and made to understand them, it is difficult to believe that they will go astray and become what the modern world calls "hoodlums," ruining their own lives and the happiness of those near them.

God "did not set His love upon you, nor choose you, because ye were more in number than any people," said Moses. "But because the Lord loved you, and because He would keep the oath which He had sworn unto your fathers."

—Deut. 7:7-8.

The Lord loves us, too, so let us strive our best to deserve His love by obeying His laws.

Justice OKs Delay in Ohio Electrocution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice

Potter Stewart of the Supreme Court has granted a stay of execution to Robert Lee Lyons Jr., who was sentenced to death in Ohio for the killing of Edward Lentz, a Cleveland police lieutenant.

Stewart granted the stay Tuesday and said it will remain in effect until the full Supreme Court acts next fall on an appeal to be filed later on behalf of Lyons.

The condemned man had been scheduled to go to the Ohio Penitentiary electric chair Friday night.

Lyons was slain Dec. 9, 1957.
In asking a stay, Lyons contended that he did not have a fair trial, was beaten by Cleveland police and forced to sign an alleged confession.

Earlier in the week, Chester K.
Gillespie, counsel for Lyons, had conferred with Gov. Michael V.
DiSalle on Lyons' case. He had urged a stay of execution.

The shooting for which Lyons was condemned occurred after Lentz halted Lyons and two companions following a complaint from Alonzo Buchanan that he had been robbed of gambling winnings.
Lyons' companions, James Davis and Dallas Milam, were convicted and received life sentences.

Even though the state's pressing financial problems were solved before the fiscal biennium began Wednesday, money continued to be a factor in the House session.

The House passed and sent to the Senate bills to:

- Make appropriations for additions and betterments, but lasting the appropriation of the last 40 of the 98 millions conditional upon tax receipts beyond estimates.

Make appropriations for sundry claims against the state, including $8,600 for a back injury suffered early last year by Solly
Hart of Cleveland, former Ohio Penitentiary inmate, when he was a passenger in a state car driven by Warren Ralph W. Alvis.

The House also sent to the Senate companion bills:

- Calling for a salary and job re-classification for 48,000 full-time state employees effective Jan. 1.
Cost of reclassification was estimated at 8½ million dollars a year with about 30,000 employees getting pay increases.

Create a State Personnel Department and abolish the present two-member Civil Service Commission. The Department would have a $14,000-a-year director and a three-member, full-time board of review at $10,000 a year each.

After an hour's debate on a bill to create a State Board of Psychologists, Senate Finance Committee Chairman Fred Harter (D-Summit) discovered it provided for a new rotary fund. Since the administration of Gov. Michael V.
DiSalle is attempting to abolish most rotary funds, Harter asked and got a one-day delay to prepare amendments to strike the new rotary fund out of the bill.

The Senate virtually completed legislative action on bills to:
• Authorize counties to enter the slum clearance business in rural areas—a measure which would be

3 Key Bills Under Study By Assembly

House Industry and Labor Committee members waited in vain until early today for Chairman Francis Reno (D-Lucas) to convene a meeting intended to consider the controversial bill to liberalize workmen's compensation.
It finally started after 1 a. m.

But the House Education Committee distributed through a complex bill to distribute an extra 52 million dollars in school foundation funds and finally recommended its passage by a 14-1 vote at 12:30
a. m.

The bill calls for a state school subsidy of 416 million, three millions more than is included in the general appropriations bill already in effect.

But terms of the committee-approved bill would cut off 29
"super-rich" school districts from all state aid and reduce state assistance for 32 others. About 61,000 youngsters are enrolled in the schools of the 61 districts involved.

One of the prime aims of the bill is to increase teacher minimum salaries from $400 to $800 a year. The committee set the effective date of the bill at Jan.

Even though the state's pressing financial problems were solved

After an hour's debate on a bill
to create a State Board of Psychologists, Senate Finance Committee Chairman Fred Harter (D-

for a new rotary fund. Since the administration of Gov. Michael V.

most rotary funds, Harter asked

new rotary fund out of the bill.

Air Academy Drapes Bring New Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force, already roundly criticized by Congress for the cost of its new academy at Colorado Springs, is suffering fresh embarrassment in the case of the $4,500 drapes.

It seems the Air Force spent around $90,000 to build a 21-foot overhanging roof around its glass-walled academy dining hall to keep out the sun.

In justifying the expenditure,
Air Force Secretary James H.
Douglas last year told the House Appropriations Committee the overhang would eliminate any need for drapes.

In this year's appropriations committee hearings made public today, Rep. Harry M. Sheppard (D-Calif.) disclosed that drapes costing $2,000 already have been installed in the dining hall with another $2,500 needed to finish the job.

That, Sheppard noted, was for only one of the three glass-walled rooms of the academy.

Undersecretary M.A. MacIn-tyre had no explanation. But he said he was sure Douglas "would be quite upset in learning about the facts."

The subject was dropped. Apparently the drapes stay up. So does the $90,000 roof overhang.

Raise pensions of policemen and firemen who retired before Sept.

days under present law.

Japanese Iris Have Special Requirements

Seem to Have Found Habitat To Their Liking In Knollwood Village

Few Pickaway County gardeners have grown Japanese iris. No lovelier flower exists than this stately four-foot plant with its tall sword-like foliage and its big flat blossoms that frequently measure over 10 inches in diameter. The color range is wide, from white through blues to purple reds.

The Schubert Measamers, Knollwood Village, have grown Japanese iris quite successfully this year. Mrs. Orion King once had them in her garden.

Mrs. King said that she dug a trench around them and filled the trench with water each day prior to the blooming season. And while her Japanese iris were all that she had dreamed, still that trench business proved to be a nuisance year after year.

The Schubert Measamers, on the other hand, have a damp spot in the corner of their yard. Two years ago they planted six rhizomes and the clumps are doing fine.

JAPANESE IRIS are rare, not only locally, but have disappeared from most gardens throughout this country. Not too many nurseries list them now.

W. F. Scott Jr. in an article in Horticulture Magazine says that Japanese iris are a sadly misunderstood flower. In 1930, according to Scott, Japanese iris were featured from coast to coast.

People bought them and planted them without bothering to learn about their necessary culture. In fact, it was generally understood that they were a water plant. This is not true. The error became imbedded in the mind of the American gardener because tourists in Japan saw that the Japanese were growing their iris in sunken beds which were flooded just before blooming time.

Actually their water requirements are modest except at this one period.

Scott lists the needs of Japanese iris as: lots of water in the spring prior to their blooming season; a soil pH between six and seven; heavy feeding and heavy mulching.

The best time to plant Japanese iris (often listed as Kaempferi) is early fall. Plant these iris aristocrats deeper than bearded iris. Cover with at least two inches of soil. Water well and keep damp until the plant is established.

JAPANESE IRIS should be heavily mulched in the fall but never with wheat straw because this iris is susceptible to wheat rust. Ground corn cobs, however, will do nicely.

To uphold the size of bloom Japanese iris must be fed with either well-rotted manure or a commercial fertilizer each fall.

As to the acidity of the soil in which they are planted, Japanese iris will not thrive in an alkaline soil. The soil must be mildly acid at least.

The nurseries warn, "This plant will not tolerate lime."

Gardeners have learned that their local water supply is often a source of alkalinity. They are warned to watch this and to counterbalance with applications of aluminum sulphate.

Mrs. Measamer says that the rhizomes form a ring eventually. It is time to separate the rhizomes when the circle is complete. One of her plants has grown into a complete circle so she plans to divide it after blooming.

THE MEASAMERS incidentally have not added aluminum sulfate to their soil. The acidity at Knollwood Village evidently is below pH seven. This is possibly the most acid soil to be found in Pickaway County which on the whole is an alkaline area.

IF GEORGIA HOTT is in the mood she can do an arrangement in 10 minutes. Other times she spends much longer on her creations. She advises arrangers to work an hour or so on several different compositions, leave them for a day or two then come back and put on the finishing touches.

"One can easily do this with dried arrangements," she reminded us. "There's no hurry."

Much of her know-how Mrs. Hott has acquired by experimenting. However she has a whole library of books on dried arrangements. Her favorite book is: "The Art of Drying Plants and Flowers" by Mabel Squires.

After collecting and treating her material Mrs. Hott sets about making her dried arrangements the way ordinary arrangers work. Incidentally, she finds floral clay better for holding dried stems than the usual pin-type holder used by fresh flower arrangers.

One year when Georgia Hott demonstrated dried flower arrangements at the county fair a spectator glanced at the table on which Mrs. Hott had placed her compositions and exclaimed, "What an interesting and beautiful class!"

The Hott arrangements are indeed interesting and beautiful and what's best of all, they are lasting.

Garden Gossip

Nobody was happier than Brent Rhoades, Route 4, Circleville, when it began to sprinkle recently. Brent is one of the Rhoades boys who tends the wayside market his folks have on Route 56 about a mile east of town. Brent says the sweet corn "sure needs a rain."

Mrs. F. B. Mowery, Kingston, has had excellent luck with sweetpeas this year. She says she has given them extra care. She planted them early and waters them each evening. "And of course I pick them each day," she says. "They'll stop blooming in a hurry if you let them go to seed."

Mrs. Mowery has not tried sweetpeas for a long time. She grew discouraged because sweetpeas just were not thriving for her. She believes now she did not tend them carefully enough.

White perennial sweetpeas are blooming at the Wenrich Stuckey place, Route 4, Circleville. Lathyrus is a perennial sweetpea that vines. It comes in two colors, magenta and pure white. The white is beautiful enough for a bride's bouquet.

Mrs. Fred Minshall, Route 1, Kingston, seems to have an early start with her annuals. Her nasturtiums are in bloom. They reseeded themselves. Also in bloom at the Minshall place are zinnias, pinks, regal lilies and petunias.

THE GORGE MINSHALLS also of Route 1, Kingston spend their time on the vegetable garden. This is a joint project and whoever has the time hoes the vegetables.

Mrs. Gerald Patrick, Route 1, Circleville, lost her boxwood but not permanently. It appears to be coming out now that she had just about given up hope.

Our own crepe myrtle did not sprout until the middle of June. We thought surely it was gone for good. It rarely blooms however and we'd like to have replaced it with one like Mrs. Edith Koch's which blooms satisfactorily almost every year.

Mrs. M. E. Noggle reports that her phlox will be blooming before too long. But for phlox and daylilies July-August gardens would be dreary gardens.

Coming to Grosse Ile, Mich. we noticed with envy the plantings of delphiniums in many gardens. Rather tricky stuff in Pickaway County the gardens north of Marion all seemed to have thriving clumps of this most beautiful of blue flowers.

Here at Grosse Ile, an island near Detroit, the ramblers are in full bloom and the strawberries at peak of perfection.

The Stanton nursery here on the island developed azaleas which will live through northern winters. We have been told that Grosse Ile at azalea time is something to see.

Don Archer, conservation man, says that green algae is easily controlled on ponds. That's the green moss like scum that ruins so many farm ponds. Archer says at first sign of the stuff to sprinkle blue vitrol crystals over it. Kills it and prevents spreading!

DON SAYS THAT if pond owners wait until the whole pond is covered and then treat with blue vitrol the algae will sink to the bottom and the carbon monoxide will kill the fish.

Mrs. Dorothy Penneti, Logan, who was visiting in Pickaway County, made hollyhock ladies for our granddaughter. The buds are the heads and the blossoms turned upside down are the full skirts of the hollyhock ladies. Kids never fail to be fascinated by these flower dolls.

When we went down to get young Joe Speakman to lend a hand with the weeds in the flower garden we were delighted to see a planting of pure white hollyhocks at the Speakman place.

Mrs. Ralph Head, Route 1, Kingston says she's turned over the gardening to "Sandy". "What," we inquired, "was Sandy raising?" Mrs. Head said, "Corn, corn and more corn." She also said they were harvesting green beans now too.

Mrs. Loren Fogler and Nancy have returned from a trip through West Virginia and Virginia. They were accompanied by Mrs. Fogler's parents. Neila says that the rhododendron, mountain laurel and wild azaleas were all in bloom in the Blue Ridge and Smoky Mountains.

Mrs. Bertha Porter, Deercreek Garden Club, doesn't neglect vegetables just because she likes flowers. She has both in her garden. The other day when we talked to her she had just finished planting cabbages.

As in Ohio the winter of 1958 and 59 was a tough one here at Grosse Ile. People despaired of their roses only to find that the loss was not so terrific after all. One thing however that did not pull through was the hive of bees which a bee man had presented to my brother-in-law. The bees just couldn't take it.

One of the neighbors here has a greenhouse and if my eyes do not deceive me it's full of orchids.

Word has come to the island that the Queen's boat will pass here. We hope it will do its passing while we're still visiting. We'd even give up a tour of the greenhouse with the orchids to see the Queen's boat.

Iris Borer'll Git You If You Aren't Careful

Yep! Iris borer is almost as prevalent among iris as chicken pox is among children. Be on the alert for it!

It is the chief foe of the iris. It attacks all varieties including the Japanese and the Siberian.

The damage iris borer does will be all too evident in July and August. You may find leaves that are loose and rotted at the base. These leaves will pull off easily. It's one sign of iris borer.

Or an exposed rhizome may show holes in it. The iris borer made the holes.

AGAIN the leaves of the new growth may be small and underdeveloped, a sure sign of iris borer.

Dig the rhizomes, remove and destroy the iris borer. Carefully clean the rhizomes before re-setting.

When neighbors give you their surplus iris look 'em over for iris borer. Many a gift iris has brought the borer to an uninfested garden area.

Regular spraying with DDT will control the iris borer. And the American Iris Society recommends a particular eradicant which can be purchased at many garden stores.

Dividing time is a fine time to be on the alert for iris borer.

Late Cabbage May Be Planted Until July 15

Cabbage plants may be set out as late as July 15 in this area. In fact if cabbages of the late variety are planted too early the heads will mature during the hot weather and burst.

Late cabbage plants should be spaced from 18 to 24 inches apart in the rows and the rows about 80 inches apart.

When transplanting cabbages in warm weather set them deeper than they stood before. Place them so that the soil comes up to the first leaf.

Varieties that are suitable for late planting include: All Season Late, Flat Dutch, and several strains of Ballhead.

TWO VARIETIES that are disease resistant are: New Wisconsin Ballhead and Wisconsin All Season.

Yes, cabbage is susceptible to certain diseases. If planted in the same location, year after year cabbage is subject to club root. Always change cabbage area if possible.

Limbing the soil helps prevent club rot. Apply fresh, hydrated lime, 10 pounds to the 100 square feet. Rake in immediately before planting.

By planting a disease resistant strain of cabbage the danger of the yellow disease may be avoided. This disease is caused by bacteria in the soil where cabbage has been previously grown.

Dividing Iris Is a "Must"

Iris clumps must be divided every three years. Unless this is done the bloom will be lessened. Dig rhizomes shortly after they have rhizomes shortly after they have foliage. Trim each fan of leaves with scissors. Plant in new groups, each section one foot apart. Discard the oldest rhizomes.

Bearded iris must not be planted too deep. Exposure to the sun is essential. Consequently in planting they should be placed with upper surface of the rhizome exposed.

To accomplish this surface planting place each rhizome on a mound of soil in the center of the planting hole.

This allows the roots to spread out and down on each side. Firm the soil well over the roots to anchor the rhizome.

WATER generously to encourage quick rooting.

Japanese iris has fibrous roots and likes a fairly acid soil. When the rhizome forms a complete circle then is the time to divide these exotic iris. The best way to divide these roots is with two forks, gently "teasing" the rhizomes to separate.

Plant the crowns at ground level.

The drivers license of one fireman was suspended under the state financial responsibility law even though he was exonerated of any blame in a traffic accident.

The law provides that a person must carry liability insurance or be financially able to pay off any damage claims.

Firemen said that since they have no liability insurance to protect them in city-owned trucks, they are stopping at red lights and stop signs when answering alarms.

Successful Arranger Favors The Use of Dried Materials

You don't have to have a nine-room house with an enclosed back-porch Mrs. James Hott of Ashville says, if your specialty is dried arrangements. But she admits it helps. Especially if the enclosed porch has two large drying closets!

Mrs. Hott, who is an old hand at flower arranging, has been creating prize-winning arrangements for 30 years. Just six years ago she started working with dried material.

Now dried arrangements are her special love. Dried material is the medium with which she most likes to work.

And since dried and preserved flowers and foliage can be used over and over, they keep accumulating. So the nine-room house and the spacious closets are a real boon to Mrs. Hott.

MRS. HOTT starts in early spring to dry flowers. She experiments with everything. But annuals like marigolds, zinnias, calendulas and celosia are the easiest and most successful driers.

One easy way to dry flowers is to hang them head-down from coat hangers in a dark, dry closet.

Another way to cure flowers of the more delicate variety is to combine five parts of cornmeal and one part borax plus two tablespoons of salt for every quart of the borax-cornmeal mixture.

Flowers are placed head down in a box and covered with this mixture. "The cornmeal," explains Mrs. Hott, "keeps the borax from lumping. The borax keeps the cornmeal from getting bugs and the salt is a fixative which sets the flower colors.

On a big table on her back porch are boxes filled with the borax and cornmeal. Flowers from the Hott garden are placed upside-down in a shoebox and gently covered with the drying agent. In a few days, depending on the size of the flower, each flower is removed, brushed off, wired and stored for future use.

Still another easy way to dry flowers is to place them head down in a pan of white sand. Place the pan in an oven with the pilot light on. Lacking a pilot light Mrs. Hott says to heat the oven to a temperature of 200 degrees. She likes this quick drying method very much.

MRS. HOTT readily admits that she likes to make dried arrangements because of their lastingness. "A well made arrangement may take considerable time," she explained, "then in a few days fresh flowers are withered and must be thrown out. But a dried arrangement will keep indefinitely."

Mrs. Hott has kept some of her best arrangements for a year or more. She gives them to her relatives to use during the winter months.

Upstairs in a mouseproof closet Mrs. Hott stores line material which she keeps from year to year. She has Scotch broom, pussy willow, cattails, Kaffircorn, wheat, oats, sea oats, beech foliage and even pheasant feathers.

"The mice can play the dickens with material like this," Mrs. Hott says.

All of Georgia Hott's arrangements have interesting, clean, structural lines. One of her favorite materials is broom corn. "Almost as good," she maintains, "as Scotch broom."

She soaks the broom corn in hot water, wires it, then bends the wire at the desired angle or curve. When it dries it will assume this shape permanently.

FOLIAGE MATERIAL and flowers are often wired to picks, ready to add to an arrangement. Such material as magnolia leaves (both dried and treated), lemon foliage, eucalyptus, cactus bean clusters, garlic tips and dried flowers are utilized in this manner.

When Mrs. Hott wants to cure foliage she uses one part glycerine to two parts water and inserts the stems of the branches in the liquid for a few days. The leaves are soft and pliable when the cure is complete.

Aside from beech leaves she treats clove bush, spirea branches, palm, eucalyptus and pear foliage.

"There are lots of other things that could be cured," Georgia Hott says, "Just keep experimenting."

Mrs. Hott keeps all her exotic plant materials that come from the tropics in this mouseproof closet. Much of this she buys at the florists. She has wood roses, for instance, from Hawaii.

All the boxes are carefully labeled.

Mrs. Hott has a big collection of pine cones, many sizes and varieties. These she finds invaluable at Christmas time. To protect them from moths the pine cones are kept in cellophane bags.

IF GEORGIA HOTT is in the mood she can do an arrangement in 10 minutes. Other times she spends much longer on her creations. She advises arrangers to work an hour or so on several different compositions, leave them for a day or two then come back and put on the finishing touches.

"One can easily do this with dried arrangements," she reminded us. "There's no hurry."

Much of her know-how Mrs. Hott has acquired by experimenting. However she has a whole library of books on dried arrangements. Her favorite book is: "The Art of Drying Plants and Flowers" by Mabel Squires.

After collecting and treating her material Mrs. Hott sets about making her dried arrangements the way ordinary arrangers work. Incidentally, she finds floral clay better for holding dried stems than the usual pin-type holder used by fresh flower arrangers.

One year when Georgia Hott demonstrated dried flower arrangements at the county fair a spectator glanced at the table on which Mrs. Hott had placed her compositions and exclaimed, "What an interesting and beautiful class!"

The Hott arrangements are indeed interesting and beautiful and what's best of all, they are lasting.

A JAPANESE IRIS — These rare and lovely iris are rather particular as to culture but not too much bother once a gardener understands their needs. They bloom two weeks after the bearded iris are over. Like humans they thrive on plenty of water, full sun and winter protection. The Japanese iris are the largest of all the species, sometimes measuring 10 inches in diameter.

Successful Arranger Favors The Use of Dried Materials

You don't have to have a nine-room house with an enclosed back-porch Mrs. James Hott of Asheville says, if your specialty is dried arrangements. But she admits it helps. Especially if the enclosed porch has two large drying closets!

Mrs. Hott, who is an old hand at flower arranging, has been creating prize-winning arrangements for 30 years. Just six years ago she started working with dried material.

Now dried arrangements are her special love. Dried material is the medium with which she most likes to work.

And since dried and preserved flowers and foliage can be used over and over, they keep accumulating. So the nine-room house and the spacious closets are a real boon to Mrs. Hott.

MRS. HOTT starts in early spring to dry flowers. She experiments with everything. But annuals like marigolds, zinnias, calendulas and celosia are the easiest and most successful dryers.

One easy way to dry flowers is to hang them head-down from coat hangers in a dark, dry closet.

Another way to cure flowers of the more delicate variety is to combine five parts of cornmeal and one part borax plus two tablespoons of salt for every quart of the borax-cornmeal mixture.

Flowers are placed head down in a box and covered with this mixture. "The cornmeal," explains Mrs. Hott, "keeps the borax from lumping. The borax keeps the cornmeal from getting bugs and the salt is a fixative which sets the flower colors.

On a big table on her back porch are boxes filled with the borax and cornmeal. Flowers from the Hott garden are placed upside-down in a shoebox and gently covered with the drying agent. In a few days, depending on the size of the flower, each flower is removed, brushed off, wired and stored for future use.

Still another easy way to dry flowers is to place them head down in a pan of white sand. Place the pan in an oven with the pilot light on. Lacking a pilot light Mrs. Hott says to heat the oven to a temperature of 200 degrees. She likes this quick drying method very much.

MRS. HOTT readily admits that she likes to make dried arrangements because of their lastingness. "A well made arrangement may take considerable time," she explained, "then in a few days fresh flowers are withered and must be thrown out. But a dried arrangement will keep indefinitely."

Mrs. Hott has kept some of her best arrangements for a year or more. She gives them to her relatives to use during the winter months.

Upstairs in a mouseproof closet Mrs. Hott stores line material which she keeps from year to year. She has Scotch broom, pussy willow, cattails, Kafir corn, wheat, oats, sea oats, beech foliage and even pheasant feathers.

"The mice can play the dickens with material like this," Mrs. Hott says.

All of Georgia Hott's arrangements have interesting, clean, structural lines. One of her favorite materials is broom corn. "Almost as good," she maintains, "as Scotch broom."

She soaks the broom corn in hot water, wires it, then bends the wire at the desired angle or curve. When it dries it will assume this shape permanently.

FOLIAGE MATERIAL and flowers are often wired to picks, ready to add to an arrangement. Such material as magnolia leaves (both dried and treated), lemon foliage, echinops, castor bean clusters, garlic tips and dried flowers are utilized in this manner.

When Mrs. Hott wants to cure foliage she uses one part glycerine to two parts water and inserts the stems of the branches in the liquid for a few days. The leaves are soft and pliable when the cure is complete.

Aside from beech leaves she treats clove bush, spirea branches, palm, eucalyptus and pear foliage.

"There are lots of other things that could be cured," Georgia Hott says, "Just keep experimenting."

Mrs. Hott keeps all her exotic plant materials that come from the tropics in this mouse-proof closet. Much of this she buys at the florists. She has wood roses, for instance, from Hawaii.

All the boxes are carefully labeled.

Mrs. Hott has a big collection of pine cones, many sizes and varieties. These she finds invaluable at Christmas time. To protect them from moths the pine cones are kept in cellophane bags.

IF GEORGIA HOTT is in the mood she can do an arrangement in 10 minutes. Other times she spends much longer on her creations. She advises arrangers to work an hour or so on several different compositions, leave them for a day or two then come back and put on the finishing touches.

"One can easily do this with dried arrangements," she reminded us. "There's no hurry."

Japanese Iris Have Special Requirements

Seem to Have Found Habitat To Their Liking In Knollwood Village

Few Pickaway County gardeners have grown Japanese iris. No lovelier flower exists than this stately four-foot plant with its tall sword-like foliage and its big flat blossoms that frequently measure over 10 inches in diameter. The color range is wide, from white through blues to purple reds.

The Schubert Measurers, Knollwood Village, have grown Japanese iris quite successfully this year. Mrs. Orion King once had them in her garden.

Mrs. King said that she dug a trench around them and filled the trench with water each day prior to the blooming season. And while her Japanese iris were all that she had dreamed, still that trench business proved to be a nuisance year after year.

The Schubert Measurers, on the other hand, have a damp spot in the corner of their yard. Two years ago they planted six rhizomes and the clumps are doing fine.

JAPANESE IRIS are rare, not only locally, but have disappeared from most gardens throughout this country. Not too many nurseries list them now.

W. F. Scott Jr. in an article in Horticulture Magazine says that Japanese iris are a sadly misunderstood flower. In 1930, according to Scott, Japanese iris were featured from coast to coast.

People bought them and planted them without bothering to learn about their necessary culture. In fact, it was generally understood that they were a water plant. This is not true. The error became imbedded in the mind of the American gardener because tourists in Japan saw that the Japanese were growing their iris in sunken beds which were flooded just before blooming time.

Actually their water requirements are modest except at this one period.

Scott lists the needs of Japanese iris as: lots of water in the spring prior to their blooming season; a soil pH between six and seven; heavy feeding and heavy mulching.

The best time to plant Japanese iris (often listed as Kaempfer) is early fall. Plant these iris aristocrats deeper than bearded iris. Cover with at least two inches of soil. Water well and keep damp until the plant is established.

JAPANESE IRIS should be heavily mulched in the fall but never with wheat straw because this iris is susceptible to wheat rust. Ground corn cobs, however, will do nicely.

To uphold the size of bloom Japanese iris must be fed with either well-rotted manure or a commercial fertilizer each fall.

As to the acidity of the soil in which they are planted, Japanese iris will not thrive in an alkaline soil. The soil must be mildly acid at least.

The nurseries warn, "This plant will not tolerate lime".

Gardeners have learned that their local water supply is often a source of alkalinity. They are warned to watch this and to counterbalance with applications of aluminum sulphate.

Mrs. Measurers says that the rhizomes form a ring eventually. It is time to separate the rhizomes when the circle is complete. One of her plants has grown into a complete circle so she plans to divide it after blooming.

THE MEASURERS incidentally have not added aluminum sulfate to their soil. The acidity at Knollwood Village evidently is below pH seven. This is possibly the most acid soil to be found in Pickaway County which on the whole is an alkaline area.

Plant Broccoli For Late Garden

Peas gone? Plant broccoli in the space where the peas were. Broccoli comes up easily from seed and if plants are set out by July 20 there will still be time to harvest a crop.

Broccoli actually withstands frost if it is not too heavy. It's true, better broccoli heads are formed in cool weather. It is a semi-hardy plant.

A dozen plants will provide a plentiful yield for the average family.

Plant broccoli about 18 inches apart in rows two feet apart. As the flower heads develop a feeding of some commercial fertilizer will be helpful and force a more rapid growth.

THE PART of the broccoli which is edible is the flower head and should be harvested when in bud form, that is before the small yellow flowers open out.

Cut broccoli heads with a stem about six inches long. But do not cut the sideheads flush with the main stalk. Instead leave about an inch of stem where it joins the main stalk and other heads will develop at these points.

Garden Gossip

Nobody was happier than Brent Rhoades, Route 4, Circleville, when it began to sprinkle recently. Brent is one of the Rhoades boys who tends the wayside market his folks have on Route 56 about a mile east of town. Brent says the sweet corn "sure needs a rain."

Mrs. F. B. Mowery, Kingston, has had excellent luck with sweetpeas this year. She says she has given them extra care. She planted them early and waters them each evening. "And of course I pick them each day," she says. "They'll stop blooming in a hurry if you let them go to seed."

Mrs. Mowery has not tried sweetpeas for a long time. She grew discouraged because sweetpeas just were not thriving for her. She believes now she did not tend them carefully enough.

White perennial sweetpeas are blooming at the Wenrich Stuckey place, Route 4, Circleville. Lathyrus is a perennial sweetpea that vines. It comes in two colors, magenta and pure white. The white is beautiful enough for a bride's bouquet.

Mrs. Fred Minshall, Route 1, Kingston, seems to have an early start with her annuals. Her nasturtiums are in bloom. They reseeded themselves. Also in bloom at the Minshall place are zinnias, pinks, regal lilies and petunias.

THE GORGE MINSHALLS also of Route 1, Kingston spend their time on the vegetable garden. This is a joint project and whoever has the time hoes the vegetables.

Mrs. Gerald Patrick, Route 1, Circleville, lost her boxwood but not permanently. It appears to be coming out now that she had just about given up hope.

Our own crepe myrtle did not sprout until the middle of June. We thought surely it was gone for good. It rarely blooms however and we'd like to have replaced it with one like Mrs. Edith Koch's which blooms satisfactorily almost every year.

Mrs. M. E. Noggle reports that her philox will be blooming before too long. But for philox and day-lilies July-August gardens would be dreary gardens.

Coming to Grosse Ile, Mich. we noticed with envy the plantings of delphiniums in many gardens. Rather tricky stuff in Pickaway County the gardens north of Marion all seemed to have thriving clumps of this most beautiful of blue flowers.

Here at Grosse Ile, an island near Detroit, the ramblers are in full bloom and the strawberries at peak of perfection.

Don Archer, conservation man, says that green algae is easily controlled on ponds. That's the green moss like scum that ruins so many farm ponds. Archer says at first sign of the stuff to sprinkle blue vitrol crystals over it. Kills it and prevents spreading!

DON SAYS THAT if pond owners wait until the whole pond is covered and then treat with blue vitrol the algae will sink to the bottom and the carbon monoxide will kill the fish.

Mrs. Dorothy Penneti, Logan, who was visiting in Pickaway County, made hollyhock ladies for our granddaughter. The buds are the heads and the blossoms turned upside down are the full skirts of the hollyhock ladies. Kids never fail to be fascinated by these flower dolls.

When we went down to get young Joe Speakman to lend a hand with the weeds in the flower garden we were delighted to see a planting of pure white hollyhocks at the Speakman place.

Mrs. Ralph Head, Route 1, Kingston says she's turned over the gardening to "Sandy". "What," we inquired, "was Sandy raising?" Mrs. Head said, "Corn, corn and more corn." She also said they were harvesting green beans now too.

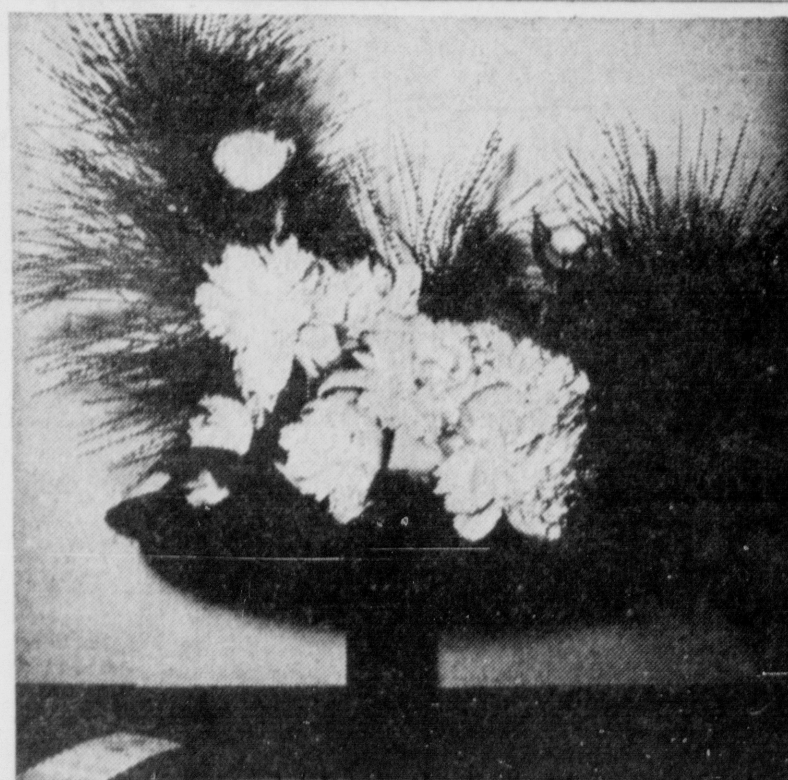

Mrs. Loren Fogler and Nancy have returned from a trip through West Virginia and Virginia. They were accompanied by Mrs. Fogler's parents. Neila says that the rhododendron, mountain laurel and wild azaleas were all in bloom in the Blue Ridge and Smoky Mountains.

Mrs. Bertha Porter, Deercreek Garden Club, doesn't neglect vegetables just because she likes flowers. She has both in her garden. The other day when we talked to her she had just finished planting cabbages.

As in Ohio the winter of 1958 and 59 was a tough one here at Grosse Ile. People despaired of their roses only to find that the loss was not so terrific after all. One thing however that did not pull through was the hive of bees which a bee man had presented to my brother-in-law. The bees just couldn't take it.

One of the neighbors here has a greenhouse and if my eyes do not deceive me it's full of orchids.

Word has come to the island that the Queen's boat will pass here. We hope it will do its passing while we're still visiting. We'd even give up a tour of the greenhouse with the orchids to see the Queen's boat.

Massed arrangements always call for the use of many flowers as well as many varieties of flowers. Here Mrs. Mast has used at least six varieties, roses, clematis, daylilies, peonies, sweet rocket and iris. (Staff Photo)

Iris Borer'll Git You If You Aren't Careful

Yep! Iris borer is almost as prevalent among iris as chicken pox is among children. Be on the alert for it!

It is the chief foe of the iris. It attacks all varieties including the Japanese and the Siberian.

The damage iris borer does will be all too evident in July and August. You may find leaves that are loose and rotted at the base. These leaves will pull off easily. It's one sign of iris borer.

Or an exposed rhizome may show holes in it. The iris borer made the holes.

AGAIN THE leaves of the new growth may be small and underdeveloped, a sure sign of iris borer.

Dig the rhizomes, remove and destroy the iris borer. Carefully clean the rhizomes before re-setting.

When neighbors give you their surplus iris look 'em over for iris borer. Many a gift iris has brought the borer to an unfestive garden area.

Regular spraying with DDT will control the iris borer. And the American Iris Society recommends a particular eradicant which can be purchased at many garden stores.

Dividing time is a fine time to be on the alert for iris borer.

Late Cabbage May Be Planted Until July 15

Cabbage plants may be set out as late as July 15 in this area. In fact if cabbages of the late variety are planted too early the heads will mature during the hot weather and burst.

Late cabbage plants should be spaced from 18 to 24 inches apart in the rows and the rows about 80 inches apart.

When transplanting cabbages in warm weather set them deeper than they stood before. Place them so that the soil comes up to the first leaf.

Varieties that are suitable for late planting include: All Season Late, Flat Dutch, and several strains of Ballhead.

TWO VARIETIES that are disease resistant are: New Wisconsin Ballhead and Wisconsin All Season.

Yes, cabbage is susceptible to certain diseases. If planted in the same location, year after year cabbage is subject to club root. Always change cabbage area if possible.

Liming the soil helps prevent club rot. Apply fresh, hydrated lime, 10 pounds to the 100 square feet. Rake in immediately before planting.

By planting a disease resistant strain of cabbage the danger of the yellow disease may be avoided. This disease is caused by bacteria in the soil where cabbage has been previously grown.

Dividing Iris Is a "Must"

Iris clumps must be divided every three years. Unless this is done the bloom will be lessened. Dig rhizomes shortly after they have rhizomes shortly after they have foliage. Trim each fan of leaves with scissors. Plant in new groups, each section one foot apart. Discard the oldest rhizomes.

Bearded iris must not be planted too deep. Exposure to the sun is essential. Consequently in planting they should be placed with upper surface of the rhizome exposed. To accomplish this surface planting place each rhizome on a mound of soil in the center of the planting hole.

This allows the roots to spread out and down on each side. Firm the soil well over the roots to anchor the rhizome.

WATER generously to encourage quick rooting.

Japanese iris has fibrous roots and likes a fairly acid soil. When the rhizome forms a complete circle then is the time to divide these exotic iris. The best way to divide these roots is with two forks, gently "teasing" the rhizomes to separate.

Plant the crowns at ground level.

Firemen Slow Down

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — St. Joseph firemen now take it easy when they go to a fire.

The drivers license of one fireman was suspended under the state financial responsibility law even though he was exonerated of any blame in a traffic accident.

The law provides that a person must carry liability insurance or be financially able to pay off any damage claims.

Firemen said that since they have no liability insurance to protect them in city-owned trucks, they are stopping at red lights and stop signs when answering alarms.

Mercury is the closest to the sun of any major planet.

While AL Foes Squabble, Yanks Climb in Standings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If somebody is going to grab the American League pennant from those New York Yankees, the rest of the clubs better stop squabbling over who is to do it.

Take Cleveland and Chicago, the two most likely to succeed. The White Sox dropped the Yankees to fifth last Sunday with a three-game punch. But while they scuffled through two games with the Indians, the Yankees jumped back to third.

The second-place White Sox split the series at Cleveland with a 6-5 victory Wednesday night, cutting the Indians' first-place edge to one game. More important, it also trimmed the Indians' lead to three games over the Yankees, who beat Baltimore 4-0 behind the four-hit pitching of Ralph Terry.

Detroit, one percentage point shy of New York, beat Kansas City 5-4. Washington whipped Boston 4-1.

The White Sox won on Jim Landis' ninth-inning sacrifice fly and a clutch relief job from Turk Lown. Woody Held's two-run homer, his 15th, chased Gerry Staley, second Sox pitcher, in the ninth, but Lown then retired the side. That saved it for starter Barry Latman (2-2).

Terry (3-5), reacquired by the Yankees from the A's May 26, walked only one and struck out six for his first victory and complete game since May 3. Billy Gardner doubled and singled for half of Baltimore's hits. Hee Brown lost it.

The Tigers beat Ned Garver (6-7) with a four-run seventh. Eddie Yost's single broke a 1-1 tie, and a double by Harvey Kuenn and singles by Charlie Maxwell and Gus Zernial put it away with two out against reliever Johnny Kucks. Paul Foytack was the winner for a 7-7 record.

Right-hander Camilo Pascual had Boston blanked on two hits with two out in the ninth. Then singles by Vic Wertz and Frank Malzone sandwiched an error for an unearned run, leaving him with a four-hitter and a 7-7 record.

Norm Siebern and Gil McDougald homered for the Yankees, who had eight hits. Siebern's 10th came in the second inning, but Brown (5-3) then blanked the champs on one hit until successive singles by Yogi Berra, Bill Skowron and Hector Lopez made it 2-0 in the seventh. McDougald homered in the ninth against reliever Billy Loes.

Mickey Mantle returned to the New York lineup after a day's absence and played 7½ innings. He had two hits.

No doubt about it, long Gene Conley is the No. 1 contender for comeback of the year honors in the National League. And he's doing it the hard way—as a winning pitcher for Philadelphia's last-place Phillies.

The 6-foot-8 right-hander, who couldn't win a game last season for pennant-winning Milwaukee, underscored his selection to the All-Star staff by pitching his second shutout Wednesday night, beating Pittsburgh 1-0 with a five-hitter.

It was the sixth victory in 10 decisions for Conley.

In the only other NL game, the Chicago Cubs defeated St. Louis 6-5. Milwaukee's game at Cincinnati was rained out, leaving the first-place Braves with a half-game edge over the San Francisco Giants.

Swede's Training Methods Studied

NEW YORK (AP) — Ingemar Johansson's sensational knockout of Floyd Patterson for the world heavyweight championship may revolutionize the training methods of American boxers.

From now on managers are going to have a tough time convincing their fighters that the spartan, monastic life is necessary to prepare for a fight.

Johansson lived in a luxurious ranch house just off the grounds of the plush Grossinger resort on the Catskill Mountains. He had most members of his immediate family and his fiancée, gorgeous, 22-year-old Birgit Lundgren with him.

He golfed, he swam and he danced.

True, he worked out about 15 rounds daily, including seven or eight rounds of boxing.

But as far as American, as well as most foreign observers were concerned, he might just as well skipped rope or punched the bag.

For in the ring he held back his vaunted right, the right that was mockingly called the "mystery" right. Most experts didn't believe he had it. If he did, why didn't he use it?

"I don't want to hurt my sparring partners," Ingemar patiently told one interviewer after another. "What good are they to me on the floor?"

In addition, Ingemar looked so terrible in the sparring you had to wonder if his record was a hoax. His sparring partners' out-painted him daily.

"It was Ingemar's underlying over-all top condition that served as a backbone for his fight with Patterson," said Dr. Gosta Karlsson, Johansson's private physician.

"I think that Ingemar was better trained than Patterson. In America I think they train according to old fashioned methods. Working yourself up to a fine peak just isn't the way to do it.

"What really counts is the basic condition of the boxer. Ingemar has it for he trains 12 months of the year. I don't mean the boxing part of it. But he keeps a rigid schedule of roadwork, runs at least one hour daily, summer or winter."

Johansson himself says roadwork and relaxing were important keys to his success.

"It's a matter of relaxing," he said. "People laughed when I said I stopped working five or six days before a fight. But I always do that. My muscles feel loose. I feel the power in my arms. Every day it gets stronger. I know I will have the power when I need it. It has not failed me yet."

How are you going to argue against success?

NEXT: Johansson's personality and his future.

HORSEMAN — Ralph Strous, Route 4, is shown here with Little Carol, a six-year-old mare. The horse is currently performing at Northfield Park, Northfield. Last year, Little Carol won $2,812, and has been in the money eight times this year in 18 starts.

"Horse Talk" May Lead to New Career

If you ever sit down to "swap horses," be careful you don't end up in the horse business.

That's exactly what happened to 51-year old Ralph Strous, Route 4, who at one time was a successful, though somewhat bored electrical appliance dealer in Circleville.

Strous is now in the horse business, hauling five of his better horses from track to track, and now housing them at Northfield, northern Ohio's newest and one of the nation's finest harness tracks.

Strous was reminiscing the other evening, watching the big grandstand fill up. "Harness racing has sure come a long way," he said. "As long as they take care of the horseman, there's no stopping it."

HE REMEMBERED well how he got into the business. Six years ago, a regular customer came into the electrical store, one thing led to another, and finally Strous said, "I'll give you a deep freeze, a refrigerator, a hot water heater, and you throw in $150."

The transaction was closed, and Strous became the owner of "La Chimes," an 11-year-old mare. He raced her in Lebanon that fall and she turned in a 2:08 for the mile. That convinced Strous. He returned to Circleville and sold his appliance business.

Today La Chimes first foal, five-year-old Air Chimes, is racing at Northfield, and Strous also has a yearling foal, a son of La Chimes, who is now 16 years of age.

Mrs. Strous accompanies her husband on their summer long swing, and Strous and his wife both hope to eventually breed harness horses. In Circleville, Strous still maintains a farm he owns on Route 4.

Jets Tumble Into Cellar

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Toronto Maple Leafs refuse to look behind today as they continue a battle upward in the International League.

A double victory over the Richmond Vees Wednesday brought them out of the loop's cellar for the first time in over a month, and left them only a half game behind sixth-place Havana.

The Leafs delighted a Dominion Day Crowd of 6,525 at Toronto with 5-1 and 4-3 victories over the Vees, who fell from second to third place.

Columbus took Toronto's place in the cellar by splitting with Montreal, winning the first 6-3 and losing the nightcap 2-0.

Miami at Rochester and Havana at Buffalo were rained out.

Wilhelm Hinted All-Star Starter

BALTIMORE (AP)—Casey Stengel hasn't named the starting pitcher for the American League in the All-Star game next week at Pittsburgh but he hinted broadly Wednesday night that it would be Hoyt Wilhelm.

After the Yankees beat the Orioles 4-0, Stengel was asked the topic of his long pre-game conversation with Oriole catcher Gus Triandos at home plate.

"I told him that I was happy to have him on my All-Star team again," the Yankee manager replied.

"And I told him he was going to get a chance to catch a fella he was very close to."

While AL Foes Squabble, Yanks Climb in Standings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If somebody's going to grab the American League pennant from those New York Yankees, the rest of the clubs better stop squabbling over who is to do it.

Take Cleveland and Chicago, the two most likely to succeed. The White Sox dropped the Yankees to fifth last Sunday with a three-game punch. But while they scuffled through two games with the Indians, the Yankees jumped back to third.

The second-place White Sox split the series at Cleveland with a 6-5 victory Wednesday night, cutting the Indians' first-place edge to one game. More important, it also trimmed the Indians' lead to three games over the Yankees, who beat Baltimore 4-0 behind the four-hit pitching of Ralph Terry.

Detroit, one percentage point shy of New York, beat Kansas City 5-4. Washington whipped Boston 4-1.

The White Sox won on Jim Landis' ninth-inning sacrifice fly and a clutch relief job from Turk Lown. Woody Held's two-run homer, his 15th, chased Gerry Staley, second Sox pitcher, in the ninth, but Lown then retired the side. That saved it for starter Barry Latman (2-2).

Terry (3-5), reacquired by the Yankees from the A's May 26, walked only one and struck out six for his first victory and complete game since May 3. Billy Gardner doubled and singled for half of Baltimore's hits. Hec Brown lost it.

The Tigers beat Ned Garver (6-7) with a four-run seventh. Eddie Yost's single broke a 1-1 tie, and a double by Harvey Kuenn and singles by Charlie Maxwell and

Swede's Training Methods Studied

NEW YORK (AP) — Ingemar Johansson's sensational knockout of Floyd Patterson for the world heavyweight championship may revolutionize the training methods of American boxers.

From now on managers are going to have a tough time convincing their fighters that the spartan, monastic life is necessary to prepare for a fight.

Johansson lived in a luxurious ranch house just off the grounds of the plush Grossinger resort on the Catskill Mountains. He had most members of his immediate family and his fiancée, gorgeous, 22-year-old Birgit Lundgren with him.

He golfed, he swam and he danced.

True, he worked out about 15 rounds daily, including seven or eight rounds of boxing.

But as far as American, as well as most foreign observers were concerned, he might just as well skipped rope or punched the bag.

For in the ring he held back his vaunted right, the right that was mockingly called the "mystery" right. Most experts didn't believe he had it. If he did, why didn't he use it?

"I don't want to hurt my sparring partners," Ingemar patiently told one interviewer after another. "What good are they to me on the floor?"

In addition, Ingemar looked so

HORSEMAN — Ralph Strous, Route 4, is shown here with Little Carol, a six-year-old mare. The horse is currently performing at Northfield Park, Northfield. Last year, Little Carol won $2,812, and has been in the money eight times this year in 18 starts.

"Horse Talk" May Lead to New Career

If you ever sit down to "swap horses," be careful you don't end up in the horse business.

That's exactly what happened to 51-year old Ralph Strous, Route 4, who at one time was a successful, though somewhat bored electrical appliance dealer in Circleville.

Strous is now in the horse business, hauling five of his better horses from track to track, and now housing them at Northfield, northern Ohio's newest and one of the nation's finest harness tracks.

Strous is reminiscing the other evening, watching the big grandstand fill up. "Harness racing has sure come a long way," he said. "As long as they take care of the horseman, there's no stopping it."

HE REMEMBERED well how he got into the business. Six years ago, a regular customer came into the electrical store, one thing led to another, and finally Strous said, "I'll give you a deep freeze, a refrigerator, a hot water heater, and you throw in $150."

The transaction was closed, and Strous became the owner of "La Chimes," an 11-year-old mare. He raced her in Lebanon that fall and she turned in a 2:08 for the mile.

That convinced Strous. He returned to Circleville and sold his appliance business.

Today La Chimes first foal, five-year-old La Chimes, is racing at Northfield, and Strous also has four other foals, along with La Chimes, who is now 16 years of age.

Mrs. Strous accompanies her husband on their summer long swing, and Strous and his wife both hope to eventually breed harness horses. In Circleville, Strous still maintains a farm he owns on Route 4.

AL All-Star Roster Named

Ted Williams on For 15th Time

BOSTON, Mass. (AP) — The American League announced its All-Star squad today and the name of Ted Williams was on the roster—for the 15th time.

Williams was not selected by his fellow players on the basis of performance.

But Casey Stengel, who will manage the AL Stars, said through Joe Cronin, league president: "If you had to look down the bench for someone to hit for you, who'd you like to have?"

Stengel's decision to select Williams came two days after Fred Haney selected Stan Musial, veteran star of the St. Louis Cardinals, who, like Williams, is having a rough year.

Haney, Milwaukee manager, will pilot the NL Stars in the interleague match of baseball's best July 7 at Pittsburgh.

Williams, although hitless in the 1957 and 1958 All-Star games, has compiled a .317 average in the 14 years he played on the American League team. He has hit four homers and driven in a dozen runs.

Williams will replace Jim Lemon of Washington in the second-line outfield, which also includes Mickey Mantle of New York and Harvey Kuenn of Detroit.

Stengel made one other change. He named Gil McDougald of the Yankees as an infielder in place of Rocky Bridges, runner-up for shortstop.

Stengel explained through Cronin: "McDougald gives me three players, you could say. I can use him at any of three positions."

As pitchers, the manager's prerogative, Stengel selected Jim Bunning of the Detroit Tigers, Bud Daley of the Kansas City Athletics, Ryne Duren and Whitey Ford of the Yankees, Billy Pierce and Early Wynn of the Chicago White Sox, and Hoyt Wilhelm of the Baltimore Orioles.

The team selected by the players has Bill Skowron of the Yankees at first, Nelson Fox and Luis Aparicio of the White Sox at second and short, Washington's Harmon Killebrew at third, and Rocky Colavito and Minnie Minoso of the Tigers in the outfield and Cleveland Indians, and Al Kaline Gus Triandos of the Orioles catching.

AL All-Star Roster Named

Ted Williams on For 15th Time

BOSTON, Mass. (AP)—The American League announced its All-Star squad today and the name of Ted Williams was on the roster—for the 15th time.

Williams was not selected by his fellow players on the basis of performance.

But Casey Stengel, who will manage the AL Stars, said through Joe Cronin, league president: "If you had to look down the bench for someone to hit for you, who'd you like to have?"

Stengel's decision to select Williams came two days after Fred Haney selected Stan Musial, veteran star of the St. Louis Cardinals, who, like Williams, is having a rough year.

Williams, although hitless in the 1957 and 1958 All-Star games, has compiled a .317 average in the 14 years he played on the American League team. He has hit fourteen homers and driven in 400 runs.

Williams will replace Jim Lemon of Washington in the second-line outfield, which also includes Mickey Mantle of New York and Harvey Kuenn of Detroit.

Stengel made one other change. He named Gil McDougald of the Yankees as an infielder in place of Rocky Bridges, runner-up for shortstop.

The team selected by the players has Bill Skowron of the Yankees at first, Nelson Fox and Luis Aparicio of the White Sox at second and short, Washington's Harmon Killebrew at third, and Rocky Colavito and Minnie Minoso of the Tigers in the outfield and Cleveland Indians, and Al Kaline Gus Triandos of the Orioles catching.
